Heinroth's view of Israel lacks sense

Regarding Michael Heinroth's Oct. 7 column, "Arabs, not Israel, should pick up the slack:"

Is Heinroth for real? Is he really that ignorant about the Middle East? The notion of forcing Arab nations to provide a homeland for the Palestinians has not been seriously discussed in Israeli politics for quite some time. The only ones still advocating such positions are a handful of cranky ideological extremist hard liners.

The racism in his column is appalling. He characterizes Arabs as oil-rich fundamentalists having too much desert. Funny, because Syria's economy is still suffering from the demise of their chief benefactor, the Soviet Union; Syria joined the Gulf War coalition in the hopes of securing foreign aid from the US. A hike in bread prices caused open rebellion in Jordan a few months back. Don't misrepresent cultures you don't understand. Don't get me wrong, I have absolutely no love for Mr. Arafat (or Assad for that matter).

Too many of my friends and relatives have been killed as a result of his actions and decisions. However, stereotypically branding the Arabs as bad and the Israelis as innocent and good does not help the situation. Neither does refusing to acknowledge the folly-filled, fanatical behavior of the Netanyahu government. And, by the way, criticism is directed at you by those who used to live in Israel.
