Volleyball, Soccer teams face big weekend

Lady Aggies travel to Nebraska, Soccer team to face Tar Heels, Colorado to battle for Big 12 lead

By JAMIE BURCH
THE BATTALION

Hitting the road for the first time this month, the Texas A&M Volleyball Team kicks off an important weekend against the University of Nebraska tonight at 7:30 in Lincoln, Neb. The No. 10 Lady Aggies then travel to Boulder, Colo., to cap off the Big 12 Conference trip against the University of Colorado on Saturday.

The Lady Aggies face the defending national champion Cornhuskers at the Nebraska Coliseum battling for the lead in the Big 12. The sixth-ranked Cornhuskers (14-2) are riding a 23-match home winning streak. More intimidating is the fact that the Huskers are 107-0 at home against conference opponents.

The winning streak spans the entire history of the now-defunct Big 8 Conference. The last time Nebraska lost to a conference opponent at home was during the Gerald Ford administration. Nebraska's only two losses on the season were to top-ranked University of Hawaii and to the University of North Carolina.

A&M Head Coach Laurie Corbelli said the team is aware of Nebraska's quick attack.

"They have a lot of talented players," Corbelli said. "We recruited four of them, so we know how good they are. Nebraska's so big at the net. When you're big at the net, you don't have as much court behind you to dig. So I would say their biggest strength is their blocking."

Senior middle blocker Page White said while the team realizes the magnitude of this weekend, it is trying to stay focused.

"When you look at it knowing the conference title could come down to Nebraska and A&M, it's very important," White said. "Because one of our goals is to win the Big 12 championship, and we need to take care of business. But we look at this weekend as a challenge. If we look at it from the other perspective, we tend to get nervous. But as underdogs, we have nothing to lose."

"A win would mean a great deal," Corbelli said. "It would be a great accomplishment and a boost to our confidence. But we have to turn around and play another great team the following night, so we're trying to keep both matches equally important."

After the match against Nebraska, the Lady Aggies will try to gun down the Buffaloes at the Coors Events Center the following night. Colorado (9-4) is 4-2 in the Big 12 and will play eighth-ranked University of Texas on Friday night.

Corbelli said that Colorado's speed is the key to their attack.

"It's mainly the speed of their set and the speed of their attack," Corbelli said. "They're quick, and they run the ball quick to their hitters. So it will be a challenge for us."

THE BATTALION

Boasting a five-game winning streak, the seventh-ranked Texas A&M Soccer Team will face two of the toughest teams in the nation this weekend at the Adidas Challenge Cup at Meyer Park in Klein, Texas.

The Aggies will not have to wait long to put their winning streak to the test as they will face the No. 2 team, North Carolina, and Duke, the 15th-ranked team in the nation, in the prestigious Adidas College Classic Tournament.

Unfortunately, the Aggies have an 0-1 record against Duke. In their matchup last year, the Aggies lost to the Blue Devils 2-1.

However, this year the Blue Devils are coming in with a 6-7-1 overall record and a three-match losing streak.

Senior forward Kristen Koop said despite Duke's seven losses, the Aggies cannot take them lightly.

"Duke is a well-established team that comes out very strong," Koop said. "We are expecting a high intensity and physical game, but we know we can battle it out with them." Duke returns six starters, nine letterwinners, and is rising on the prestige they earned last year by making it to the Sweet 16 in the NCAA Tournament.

The Aggies will have only one day of rest before they compete against the 10-1 Tar Heels.

Not only are the Tar Heels ranked second in the nation, they also have earned a reputation in women's collegiate soccer, winning 12 of the 14 national titles that have been awarded.

The Aggies have an 0-1 record against the Tar Heels. Guerrieri views this game as a great opportunity for the Aggies to compare to the best.

"UNC has always been a standard by which national players are measured," Guerrieri said. "This team has most of the best players in the nation and great coaching staff. This is a great opportunity for us to be measured as one of the best teams in the country."

After this tournament, the Aggies will square off against the University of Texas at the AgCenter Complex Oct. 22.

Williams looks like he's in a good mood. Different people get motivated in different ways, and the way he comes to practice.

As a senior, Williams is near the end of a long and varied college career.

Johnson said what Williams has done to become a member of the Wrecking Crew reveals his determination to succeed.

"He is committed to being successful in football and in life," Johnson said. "And he's done hard work to overcome a lot of obstacles."

WILLIAMS

"I am real quiet and try to concentrate on my game," Williams said. "I just want to dominate my opponent."

Jasper said even in practice, Williams has a very serious and determined demeanor.

"We always tease him and call him madman," Jasper said. "I guess it's his practice face. He al-
