AT SOUTHWEST RESEARCH, YOU'LL HAVE SPACE TO WORK AND ROOM TO BREATHE.

Assembled on 1,200 rustic acres teeming with white tail deer on the outskirts of San Antonio, Southwest Research Institute shares something important with the original pioneers. A special appreciation for the power of the individual. As a leading independent applied engineering and physical science research and development organization, we offer our 2,600 employees the chance to work at the cutting edge of scientific investigation in the rolling hills of Texas. In 1.7 million square feet of laboratories, workshops and offices as big as Texas, they work on over 1,400 research projects annually, ranging from automation to lubrication; bioengineering to virtual simulation; environmental protection to space science. And every one pushes the envelope of human understanding.
