HOUSING

Sasse said, in the press release, that the study of current housing conditions was needed before a plan could be created for the future.

"Now we know what we're up against, and we can devise a way to deal with it," he said.

The study rated 14 percent of A&M housing in good condition, 70 percent in fair condition and 16 percent in poor condition.

Karen Fisher, director of facilities and operations for the Residence Hall Association and a junior zoology major, said the study ranked problems to determine which were most urgent.

She said the study was necessary. "The survey needed to be done," Fisher said. "We knew there were a lot of problems."

She said the residence halls are generally in good condition, compared to other universities, but need to be improved.

"It is a lot easier for [the Department of] Residence Life to handle it now because the problems have been prioritized," Fisher said. "Now at least they know where to concentrate."

Bowen said housing deficiencies will become a problem if the advice is ignored. The Department of Residence Life expects to complete a plan for housing renovations later this year.

Detective Bill Wade, who is in charge of the investigation, said the drawing has prompted some people to contact UPD and offer possible suspects.

"People have seen [the] composite everywhere," Wade said. "We have had four concerned citizens call in and give us names and license plate numbers."

"However, when the victim was shown pictures of the possible suspects, she didn't recognize any of them,"

TECHNOLOGY

Scarcella said the conference has given him the chance to talk to other educators.

"I met and spoke with many other teachers," he said, "and we have exchanged information about the different things we are doing in our classrooms."

The conference also included a presentation by Marilyn Fowler, a science specialist with the Texas Statewide Systematic Initiative. She discussed the design technology and engineering for America's Children Program.

Terrance Kaster, a technology teacher in the Tyler School District, said the program is great for preparing elementary-age children for the world in which they will work.

"This program brings technology down to the grade-school level," he so we haven't had any new developments. The man made a threatening phone call to the student on Oct. 23, 1996.

The victim then saw the unidentified stalker in the bushes outside of her sorority house on Oct. 28, 1996. He was seen once again on Oct. 28 in a classroom.

The student last saw the man at Bonfire on Nov. 5. The man has made several other phone calls to a woman, including one this semester. Anyone with any information regarding the stalker is asked to contact the UPD at 845-2345.

SHOOTING

"I'd been out there about a minute when I heard what I thought to be firecrackers," David Robinson, a tourist from England, said. "Then everyone started panicking."

Empire State Building spokesman Howard Rubenstein said cameras filmed the gunman on an escalator to the elevator lobby after he bought a ticket to the floor lobby.

"He had a long coat and was under his coat. You could see it," Rubenstein said. The gunman turned over to police.

Visitors buy a ticket to the and ride elevators to the 88th deck. They are not routinely subjected to metal detectors or x-rays of personal belongings.

ROLL CALL
SQUADRON 12 AND COMPANY E-1 LEAD FALL GRADES

Squadron 12 led the Corps of Cadets to a record 2,667 cumulative grade point average in the fall semester. "This is the best that the Corps has ever done," according to Colonel Don Johnson, Deputy Commandant.

Commanded by Cadet Greg Moore, an Agricultural Economics major from Willis Point, Squadron 12 posted an average of 2.9115 with 41 cadets. Company E-1 followed Squadron 12 with an average of 2.9321 with 79 cadets. Company E-1 is commanded by Cadet Joe Currin, an Industrial Distribution major from Alvarado, Texas. In third place is Company V-1 posting an average of 2.9021 with 37 cadets. Commanded by Cadet Craig Martin, an Industrial Engineering major from Round Rock, Company V-1 serves as an unit for those students who reside off campus. Currin explained the success of Company E-1 as, "I have dedicated upperclassmen to make the best environment to study. However, it is the freshman who have made the most of this environment." Currin was explaining that Company E-1's thirty-five freshmen posted above a 2.9000 GPA.

Each of the 82 Corps units compete for awards given on Parents' Day in the Spring. Listed are the top ten academic units for the 1996 Fall Semester.

Squadron 12	2.9115
Company E-1	2.9321
Company V-1	2.9021
Squadron 18	2.7650
Squadron 17	2.7607
Company K-1	2.7407
Squadron 16	2.7317
1B Company, Band	2.7290
Squadron 2	2.7148
A Battery, Band	2.6675

MASCOT COMPANY E-2 LEADS MARCHING COMPETITION

Mascot Company E-2 currently leads the Corps of Cadets in the year long marching competition. Commanded by Cadet Todd Sullivan, a Petroleum Engineering major from Galveston, Company E-2 serves as a home for Reveille, Texas A&M's mascot.

The Aggie Band and 38 other Corps Units compete in the drill competition at each football game, march-in and review. Units are graded on appearance and execution of drill movements. The final results of the competition are one of several military disciplines evaluated for the Hochstetler Award given on Parents' Day. This award recognizes the top military unit.

As of the end of the fall semester, these are the top ten units in marching.

Place	Unit	Place	Unit
1	Company E-2	6	Company G-2
2	Company V-1	7	Squadron 8
3	Company G-1	8	Squadron 2
4	Company K-2	9	Company A-1
5	Squadron 12	10	Company D-1

Remaining in the competition are a review for the SCORC delegates in February and the Military Week-end Review in March.

PARSON'S MOUNTED CAVALRY PLACES SECOND

The Parson's Mounted Cavalry initiated its parade season by placing second in the Bryan-College Station Christmas Parade on Dec. 1. The parade kicked off the holiday season for the community.

The Cavalry participates in a number of parades and livestock shows during the spring. The troop recently made a trip to Ft. Worth where they rode in the Ft. Worth Livestock Show Parade and participated in the grand entry for the rodeo. Additional trips are scheduled to Houston and Laredo. The Cavalry is composed of twenty-six sophomores, juniors, and senior cadets within the Corps of Cadets. The cadets manage and train with twenty-seven horses and two mules.

FRESHMAN LEADERSHIP TRAINING

The Corps of Cadets has implemented a comprehensive leadership program aimed at preparing the freshman class for various leadership positions next fall. The program is under the direction of Cadet J.D. Williams, a Political Science major from Palestine, Texas, Cadet Danny Feather, an Economics major from Menard, Texas, and Cadet Joe Curran. The program will span the entire semester and will cover various topics including: Leadership by Example, Sophomore Rules and Responsibilities, Building Respect, Counseling, and Mentoring.
