SPORTS BRIEFS

Three tracksters travel to Atlanta for meet

Texas A&M seniors Rosa Jolivet, Anjanette Kirkland and Danny McCray travel to Atlanta this weekend to compete in the United States Track and Field Indoor Championships at the Georgia Dome. McCray will compete in the preliminaries of the 400-meter dash today, with the finals held Saturday. Jolivet and Kirkland will compete in the 55-meter hurdles Saturday. Jolivet will use this meet as a tune-up for next weekend's NCAA Indoor Championships. A&M Head Coach Ted Nelson said this meet will be a good opportunity for the three competing. "It will give them quality experience against some of the top athletes in the United States," Nelson said. "They will get to see how they stack up against the best."

A&M golf team to compete in El Paso

The Texas A&M's Men's Golf Team will travel to El Paso this weekend to participate in the first-ever Texas-El Paso Intercollegiate Golf Tournament to be held at the Fort Bliss Golf Complex.

The field will feature of a plethora of teams, including 11th-ranked Arizona State. Senior Jeff Brown, junior Miguel del Angel, sophomores Matt Welch, Ty Cox and Ryan Palmer, and freshman Lee Reed will represent the Aggies.

A&M Head Coach Bob Ellis said although there are only ten teams competing, there will be a very strong field.

"Half of the teams are nationally ranked, so we're looking forward to the competition," Ellis said.

Disc Golfers host Mini Tournament

Disc Golfers for Christ will host the Disc Golf Mini Tournament Saturday at 1 p.m. at Research Park. Everyone is invited to participate.

There will be four divisions: pro, advanced/amateur, amateur and women's. The entry fee for the pro division will be $10 and the women's division fee is $8.

Registration will begin at noon and the top third in the men's division will receive a monetary prize and the top quarter in the women's division will receive a monetary prize.

Women's tennis to play San Diego

THE BATTALION

Escaping the wind and rain of College Station, the Texas A&M Women's Tennis Team travels to California this weekend for a two-match road trip. For the first time since 1990, the No. 27 Lady Aggies (4-1 overall, 1-0 Big 12) will face San Diego State University in San Diego. The two teams reunite today at 2 p.m.

"We don't know a whole lot about them," senior Julie Beahm said. "They are known for good tennis, and it should be a very tough match."

Head A&M Women's Tennis Coach Bobby Kleinecke said the rainy weather has been a burden on the practice schedule.

"The weather isn't helping us to prepare," he said. "We've had to cancel a few days of practice and it's been tough."

Finally, the team resorted to indoor courts in north Houston to get in a practice on Tuesday.

Kleinecke said despite the lack of practice he feels confident going in, with a strong singles lineup consisting of players such as senior captain Nancy Dingwall, Beahm and junior Vanessa Rooks. The Lady Aggies, though, have never beaten San Diego in California.

"We are going to need wins out of the top people in singles," Kleinecke said. "Our doubles are not bad, but we've had some weird results lately."

"The girls are working on it and are understanding what needs to be done."

Beahm said she is looking forward to the trip and the competition because it is a break from conference play.

"This will be our nicest trip, and we don't have the pressure as if it were a conference match, although this can help us prepare for the future," she said.

Because the competition will be a good opportunity up in the polls, Kleinecke said.

"They are in the top 25, a chance to solidify credibility nationwide," he said.

Beahm said the team will concentrate on its opponents.

"We're just going to go out there and be aggressive," she said. After facing San Diego today, the Lady Aggies will play against the University of San Diego at 10 a.m.

Kleinecke said although the match will be competitive, Lady Aggies should be beating their ground.

"Establishing our singles, however, will be the key to our success," he said.

Aggies take on TCU Horned Frogs

By DENNIS RAMIREZ
THE BATTALION

As the Texas A&M Men's Tennis Team travels to Fort Worth to attempt to tame the 11th-ranked Texas Christian University Horned Frogs, two disappointing losses linger in the minds of its members along with thoughts of redemption.

After dropping two heartbreaking matches, the Aggie netters are in the heart of the season with six matches in ten days, they now must pick up the pieces and get back on track.

"The two matches so far we have played hard but have made some fundamental mistakes which we had been working on in practice," Head Coach Tim Cass said. "At some point you talk about refusing to lose, and the guys are working hard but somebody has to step up in clutch situations. We have lacked that a little, and now it just has to happen."

Senior Robbie Krause is hoping the experience, gained from the close losses will be something the team can fall back on as they face TCU.

"While they (the losses) were heartbreakers, they weren't absolute heartbreakers because we have gotten a lot out of them," Krause said. "While we have been doing everything really well, to win at this level you must play great to win a match. As for TCU, they are definitely the best team we have played. They have always been tough, and we aren't expecting any easy matches. As long as we keep on working hard and keep our consistency, a win will come."

During the last two matches the entire dual match has come down to a single match to decide who walked away with the win.

Through this, the younger individuals on the team have been able to make the necessary adjustments. As freshman Tony Young said, changes have been made since the first match.

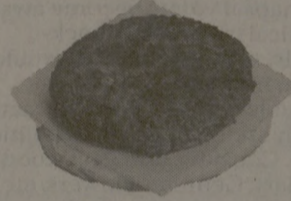

Freshman Tony Young hits the ball against TCU.

"I made positive changes since my first match helped me this weekend and made me feel really good," Young said. "As we look at TCU, we are definitely looking for our first win of the season, and in order to win, we are going to have to show up ready to play. As a team, we feel as if we have something to prove to ourselves, and we will motivate us to go out and pick up the win as well."

So while the Aggie netters leave the Brazos Valley confines of Horned Frog country, they remain confident. Coach Cass, though, is just hoping for the best. "The better team will come out on top."

"On paper they should probably beat us, but we can beat them if we play our hearts out. In sports, what matters is the good teams from mediocre teams is that you find a way to win; right now we have to do that. It's positive for us is that the team is working hard and have improved, but every time we go out and play, it's going to be tough."
