VORLD

THAILAND

Chong Chom Pass

CAMBODIA Mekon g River

VIETNAM

LAOS

Your exclusive dealer for Ex Officio Adventure Clothing. Come see the Baja Series Shirts featuring the climate controlled ventilation system. Perfect for travel & casual wear.

1406 Texas Avenue South, College Station Redmond Terrace Shopping Center, next to Copy Corner 695-2807

Vietnam plane crashes t Cambodian airport

MNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) wanese had been aboard. Vietnam Airlines jetliner hed in a ball of flames today landing approach to Phnom sinternational airport. Police at least 62 people were killed. he Soviet-built Tupolev 134 ne, arriving from Ho Chi Minh went down in a rice paddy out a half-mile south of the way during a heavy downur, clipping palm trees and exding into flames on impact, messes said

The cause of the crash was unwn. The wreckage was still ming more than one hour after 1:40 p.m. crash.

ccess for firetrucks and rescue ers was made difficult by a narflooded dirt road that was the way to the crash. A plume of oke rose over the airport.

outh Korean Ambassador Park ng Tai said 18 passengers from h Korea were on board. Taise state radio, citing Tainese businessmen and lawmakeng Chen-nung from Phnom his airport, said at least 21 Tai-

Gaza ISRAEL Strip

news, has a

Web savvy

PointCast

: product

rage fellow

ork software

Earn $1.50

p to $5,000

on form at:

752

Khieu Kanharith, Cambodia's secretary of state for information, said the passengers were also believed to include an unspecified number of Germans.

Bodies from the crash were strewn around the fire-blackened wreckage. Witnesses some police officers joined civilians in trying to loot scattered luggage and pieces of the plane until they were chased off by other officers blowing whistles

Police, speaking on condition of anonymity, gave the initial number of dead at 62, and said there were four survivors, two adults and two children. It was not known how many people were aboard.

Police were looking for scraps of paper and passports that might help identify the victims.

Witnesses said that the plane appeared to be making a landing approach when the pilot realized he had overshot the runway. The nose started to rise, but then the plane

"I was playing and I heard the sound of the plane, and then a very noisy BOOM!" said Roeun Phirum, a 12-year-old boy. "The plane hit a bunch of trees and went into the paddy and slid about 200 meters (yards). It hit a cow tied to bamboo trees.'

Rescue workers rushed one of the survivors, a small child, covered in mud and debris, to an ambulence.

Thousands of Phnom Penh residents converged on the crash scene. Some looting broke out, but was stopped by police and Cambodian

Only the tail section of the plane and a portion of the fuselage remained intact.

Ib Vanna, a farmer who was plowing his field, was about a halfmile from the plane when it crashed.

There was this huge explosion," Ib Vanna said. "It sounded like the gas tanks had exploded.'

Vietnam Airlines was one of the first commercial carriers to resume service to Phnom Penh's Pochentong International Airport in the wake of a bloody coup in July where fighting was heavy around the airport.

Chemical American

Society

Student Affiliate Chapter

Come See What It's All About!

Thursday, September 4, 1997 @ 6:30 p.m.

New Chemistry Building Rm 2102

Shots fired near West Bank

NATAF, Israel (AP) — Assailants fired shots at an Israeli pickup truck driving near the West Bank today, killing the driver and passenger, police said.

Police chief Assaf Hefetz said the possibility that the shooting was a terrorist attack "is being checked, but it is not strong and at the moment we think it is more

The shots were fired at about 3:15 p.m. (8:15 a.m. EDT) near the Israeli village of Nataf, which is close to the border between Israel and the West Bank.

The identity of the gunmen was not known. Witnesses said they saw people fleeing the area of the shooting in a car, which media reports said was a taxi. Hefetz said one of the victims, whose body was found on a dirt path a few yards outside the truck, had a criminal record.

Media reports described him as a loan collector lured to the area by the killers.

The other victim, a gardener, was slumped over the steering wheel of the pickup truck, which was loaded with flower pots. Media reports said he may have been killed by accident or because he was a witness to the mob-style slaying of the other man.

One of the first to arrive at the scene was the chairman of the quasi-governmental Jewish Agency, Avraham Burg, who lives in Nataf.

Dozens of police and soldiers also arrived in the area and sealed off the road to Nataf.

Hefetz said he expected progress in the investigation "very soon" based on evidence found at the scene

"AS IRON SHARPENS IRON, SO ONE MAN SHARPENS ANOTHER."

PROVERBS 27:17

The Aggie Men's Club

Selections 1997

Date	Time	Place	Dress
Sept. 8 Sept. 10 Sept. 11 Sept. 13	7-9pm	Clayton Williams Alumni Center	Coat and Tie
Sept. 10	7-10pm	Kyle Field Press Box	Nice
Sept. 11	7-10pm	Faculty Club (Rudder Tower)	Nice
Sept. 13	2-5pm	Hensel Park (S. college)	Casual

For additional information, please contact Pablo Merheb- Selection Chairman at 694-0026

Check out our internet Web site at http://amc.myrad.net

THE AGGIE MEN'S CLUB AT TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY WAS CREATED BY A GROUP OF STUDENTS WITH THE INTENT OF PROVIDING AN ATMOSPHERE OF CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP AND BROTHERHOOD. IF YOU ARE INTERESTED PLEASE FEEL FREE TO ATTEND OUR SELECTION PARTIES.

THURSDAY OCTOBER 2 1997

G. ROLLIE WHHE COLISEUM TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY

PRODUCED BY USC TOWN HALL GLENN SMITH

PRESENTS INC.

KEVIN SHARP MARK WILLS, AND LEE ANN WOMACK

HCKEIS ON SALE SATURDAY SEPTEMBER 6 AT 10AM AT THE MSC BOX OFFICE IN RUDDER TOWER FOR INFORMATION CALL 409-845-1234. HCKET PRICE: $19.50

ons with disabilities should call 845-1515 so accommodations can be made as needed.