

All-American Blalack sparks big victory

By STEPHEN BOUDREAU
Staff writer

It took only 30 seconds for Bryn Blalack to put the sixth-ranked A&M soccer team ahead for good in a 2-1 victory over 16th ranked Stanford.

"She showed why she is a consensus first team All-American and why she is such a weapon," Head Soccer Coach G. Guerrieri said. "Not only did she do well, but everyone around her did a good job to cover a lot of things that give her the freedom to attack and do the things she does so well."

Blalack, a senior midfielder, was the sole Big 12 representative on the Soccer America preseason All-America team.

After an hour and a half delay because of lightning Tuesday night, the game began with a sloppy first half by both teams.

"Stanford is a quality team and the style that they play makes it very difficult to establish any type of possession or rhythm to our game," Guerrieri said. "So us being a little out of control is by design by what the Cardinals are doing."

With the game scoreless 52 minutes into the game, Junior Sharon Pickering sent a corner kick to the center of the penalty box where Blalack headed it in to give the Aggies the lead.

"Sharon had been serving great corners the whole night and I finally got my head on one," Blalack said. "Sharon and I have been working on that, so it was due. It happened at the right time."

Within half a minute, Blalack struck again.

After stealing the ball off the Stanford kickoff, the Aggies penetrated the Cardinal defense. Sophomore Mandy Davidson delivered a pass to Blalack who drove the ball up the midfield. From 15 yards out, Blalack sent the rain soaked crowd of 968 people into a frenzy when she launched a shot destined for the back of the net.

"That second goal was a bomb. An absolute bomb," Guerrieri said.

The back-to-back goals were the first and second of the year for Blalack, who is A&M's all-time leading goal scorer with 64 career goals.

"My role this season is not to score goals. I'm more like the quarterback trying to get the ball to other people," Blalack said. "But it does feel good to get my first goal."

Both teams got 14 shots off, Stanford connecting with only one at the 72:58 mark when Stanford midfielder Katherine Horney snuck one by the A&M defense and sophomore goal keeper Melanie Wilson.

"Because our midfield is so explosive and they would take the ball on counters and penetrate into Stanford's area. Our defense was a little slow in picking up," Guerrieri said. "If we lost the ball there was space in between our midfield and defense. That worked to Stanford's advantage."

The victory moves A&M to a 2-0 record. This weekend the team will be traveling to face Big 12 Conference foes Kansas and Missouri. The next home game will be Friday, Sept. 12, against Iowa State at the Aggie Soccer Complex.
