Volleyball looks to rebound against OU

By TRAVIS V. DABNEY Staff writer

The Texas A&M Volleyball Team will attempt to recover from a tough loss to the University of Texas in their second conference match of the season. They will take on the University of Oklahoma tomorrow night at 7 p.m. at G. Rollie White Coliseum.

The Aggies had their seven-game winning streak snapped on Wednesday by the twelfth-ranked Longhorns in a five game match ending with the Horns taking the last two games by scores of 15-12.

"Mentally we are fine after that loss, but we do have a few nicks and scrapes," Coach Laurie Corbelli said. "It is real important that we are resilient right now, and remain up beat."

Outside hitter Jennifer Wells said she believes the Aggies will make a strong comeback after the loss to the Horns.

"Last night we all decided that that match was behind us," Wells said. "OU has a great team and we are going to be fired up when we play on Saturday night."

The Sooners come into Saturday night's match with a 6-5 record and two straight losses. Even with the less-than-stellar record, two of the Sooners' losses have come at the hands of Stanford University and Brigham Young University, both of whom are considered among the elite teams in the country. Coach Corbelli says the Aggies will have their hands full on Saturday night with Oklahoma.

"OU has a very solid team and a couple of great outside hitters," she said. "They return five starters and they are ready for success."

Corbelli also said she expects the Aggies to return to winning form against the Sooners.

"Mentally, we are fine after the UT game, physically we are a bit banged up but I expect that will be fine on Saturday," Corbelli said.

Oklahoma will be at a slight advantage due to a scheduling glitch forcing them to play on Friday night and Texas A&M on Saturday night. Coach Corbelli Does not feel this will have an effect on Saturday's game.

"Physically it won't matter because all the players are in such good shape, and we aren't worrying about what they are doing," Corbelli said. "We need to worry about what Texas A&M is doing."

Even with the loss on Wednesday night, coach Corbelli seems to be very pleased with season to date.

"I am so happy to be coaching this team right now, I would want to coach any other team in the country," Corbelli said. "This team has the ability to learn from its mistakes and they all have fun enjoying being around on another

Aggie Softball Team kicks off Fall season

By JEFF SCHMIDT Staff Writer

"Talented but young" is not only a theme of the Texas A&M Football Team, but also applies to the Texas A&M Softball Team.

The Aggies begin the fall season Saturday by hosting the Texas Aggie Fall Softball Tournament at Central Park.

The Aggies start the tournament by playing Alvin Community College at 10:00 a.m. on field one. They will also play Blinn College, Texas Lutheran University, and Centenary College. The Championship game is at 7:00 p.m. Admission to the tournament is free.

Coach Jo Evans said the team can practice during the fall even though softball is a Spring sport. "The NCAA allows us 22 weeks out of the year to practice," Evans said. "If we start right after Christmas that leaves us some time to work out. We choose to go now when the weathers nice."

This extra time can be useful in evaluating the team.

"It's good teaching time for us. We spend a lot of time with the kids and on fundamentals," Evans said.

Last season, the Aggies finished 37-29 and wound up sixth in the Big Twelve. However, only five teams advanced to the NCAA playoffs.

Despite getting shut out of the playoffs, Evans said she was proud of what last year's team accomplished.

"We finished pretty well considering our team was really young," Evans said.

She hopes that the post season snub will motivate the team.

"There's a good chance as the season wears on that if we play well and we come together like I think we can," Evans said, "we'll have a chance to be ranked and do some good things."

The team will be led by a solid core of returning lettermen such as shortstop Jamie Smith. Last season, Smith lead the team in batting as a true freshman.

Catchers Marianne McGuire and Amy Schmaltz along Rightfielder Tanya Klecker also be counted on to contribute. McGuire is the defensive oriented catcher while Schmaltz will provide offensive firepower. Klecker, an excellent slap bunter, the speed to steal bases.

However, the returnees have to fight off challenges 10-woman freshman including live-armed freshman pitcher Ashley Lewis, all of whom can contribute.

"Every single new person has possibility of stepping up and doing great things," first assistant coach Al Sagas said.

Evans said the fall is a time for newcomers to adjust to college. "We're spending a lot of time getting to know each other, getting our team chemistry," Evans said. "We have a lot of new players and they're trying to learn our system and adjust to our coaching and each other."

Klecker said that the new players playing experience will be the team.

"A lot of the new girls play ball in the summer to stay in shape, and that'll help," she said.

After getting their feet wet hosting their own tournament, Aggies will travel to Springfield, Mo. for the 1997 SK College Classic to be played on October 4-5. If the Aggies muster a good showing at the tournament, there is a chance they could wind up being the dreading Texas Shortstop.

The team swept the Shortstop last season.

The Aggies spring season begins February 10 with a double header at Southwest Texas State University. The first home game will be at the Aggie Invitational February 20-22.

The Aggies fully anticipate a good campaign in the fall. Corbelli said she expects a little more.

"I believe we can get to the NCAA Regionals," she said.

If confidence is a key to winning, the Aggies already have step up on the competition.

Albert fired by NBC after entering guilty plea on assault charges

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — After three days that put the details of his kinky sex life on trial, Marv Albert pleaded guilty Thursday to assault and battery charges that could bring him a year behind bars and perhaps a lifetime of humiliation. Within hours, NBC fired him.

"From my point of view, I just felt like I had to end this ordeal," Albert said outside court in a weary voice after agreeing to a deal in which prosecutors dropped the more serious charge of forcible sodomy, which carried from five years to life in prison.

Albert, 56, was accused of a long-time lover of flinging her a bed, viciously biting her and forcing her to perform oral sex in an Arlington hotel room Feb. 14 because she failed to bring an eraser man into their bed.

His plea came a day after a surprise witness came forward with similar accusations: that Albert wearing white pants and a garter belt — bit her on the neck and tried to force her to perform oral sex on him during a struggle in a Dallas hotel room that left her holding the sportscaster's toupee.
