TRADE

"Don't ignore the international information and advice out there and think that it is the rest of the world that needs to do the changing," Scardino said. "Acute sensitivity to business customs, contracts and deals of whoever you are dealing with is critical."

Scardino said three trends contribute to the expansion of business markets: explosion of international trade, worldwide trend of deregulation of trade and regional trade policies such as NAFTA.

Pierce and Publishing Co. owns newspapers in several countries, a television company, amusement parks, software companies, wax museums and Penguin Publishing Co. Scardino said half of their revenue and staff is in the United States.

Sunny Bhide, a first-year MBA student, said Scardino provided a different view of international business.

"It is great to have the perspective of someone overseeing huge operations that are not U.S., it is much needed," Bhide said. "The U.S. is so big and powerful that we often forget other people are very successful, but have different opinions and methods."

Sara Lloyd, a first-year MBA student, said Scardino's business experiences were valuable for students to learn from.

"It helps me know what to expect in the business world and how to prepare myself," she said. "Her insight is valuable because she gave

Police continue search for suspect

The Bryan Police Department is trying to find an unidentified man for questioning about an aggravated sexual assault Sept. 25.

The BPD said the 22-year-old victim said she was assaulted by the unknown suspect, who had a knife and was in her home on E. 24th Street when she came home at 4:30 p.m.

The victim described the subject as a Hispanic male (possibly being half African-American), about 5'7" to 5'8", 160-170 lbs., medium skin tone, dark eyes, short curly hair, with a slight moustache and a strong Spanish accent.

She said the suspect was wearing a purple T-shirt, baggy black pants and black tennis shoes.

Anyone with information should call the Bryan Police Department at 361-3737.
