Does truth work?

Does science exclude God?
Where did we come from?
Why am I here?
Can I live a rich and fulfilling life?
Is life only a race to acquire possessions?
If God exists, what does He want from me?

HEALTH TIPS

Ways to shed pounds have become hot topics in society. One quarter to one third of Americans are overweight, and as many as 40 percent of women and 24 percent of men are trying to lose weight.

People search for easy, quick weight-loss gimmicks. With all the weight-loss programs and "diet aids," determining which are valid may be difficult.

A person must decide if losing weight is the right decision before starting a diet. Height and weight charts provide guides in determining a desirable body weight based on height and frame size.

A.P. Beutel Health Center offers a six-week weight-control series beginning Oct. 13., on Mondays at 4 p.m. in Room 16 of the health center. Although the series is free, students must reserve spaces by calling 845-1341.

change his splint."

Kristi Ellor, a technician at the Kingdom Animal Hospital, said donations can be made to help with expenses for the second surgery or for the care Marlin already has received.

"Anything that we can get would help," Ellor said. "Marlin is a pure-bred dog."

Lara said the hospital has contacted the Great Pyrenees Association for financial assistance for the second operation.

"I raise and breed dogs," Lara said. "Most rescue organizations are willing to help."

Roubion, who paid $150 to have the dog cared for and treated at a clinic in Waco, said he encourages students to help Marlin.

"It's obvious that Dr. Lara's office has taken good care of him and they are working on finding a good home for him," Roubion said.

"If there is anybody out there with a good heart who is willing to help him out financially or willing to provide a good home for Marlin, that would be great."

For information about helping Marlin, contact the Kingdom Animal Hospital at (409) 823-5495.

now," Lara said. "We don't know if it will heal. If we can get help in the next week, it will be the best." Lara said the operation may cost $500, and extended care could cost as much.

"At this point, we are looking for someone to care for him," she said. "He is doing great right now. He is eating despite his jaw surgery. When he came to us, his hair was matted and [he was] malnourished. He will probably be neutered within the next week when I have to sedate him to

Festival stresses Hispanic unity

By COLLEEN KAVANAGH
Staff writer

Hispanic Texas A&M students continued to celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month at the Caliente Festival Saturday.

The Hispanic Business Student Association sponsored the festival, which was held in front of the Academic Building.

Other Hispanic organizations assisted HBSA with Caliente Festival. Entertainment was provided by a mariachi band, break dancers, Ballet Folklorico Celestial and the Aggie Wranglers.

The festival concluded with a Mr. Hispanic Heritage Month pageant organized by the Kappa Delta Chi sorority.

Chris Wallingsford, HBSA member in charge of organizing the festival and a junior business analysis major, said almost all the Hispanic organizations at A&M participated.

"Caliente is a social thing to bring people together and increase Hispanic awareness around campus," he said. "Hispanic organizations on campus have different cultures, and Caliente brings us together to inform others about our cultures."

Ashworth said Williams was an advocate of education and a great scholar. He said Williams was an avid reader of history who wrote a book on dueling in the South.

"He kept writing while he worked in administration," Ashworth said. "He continued to be a scholar and student of history."

Daniel Volk, president of HBSA and a senior accounting major, said turnout this year is the biggest he has seen.

"We thought the football game and cut would interfere with Caliente," he said. "But I think moving Caliente in front of the Academic Building helped increase participation."

Teresa Gomez, a Kappa Delta Chi member and senior industrial distribution major, said the contestants were judged in categories such as best-dressed, congeniality, community service and academics.

Jose Sanchez, a senior marketing major, represented Sisters For Cultural Awareness and won Mr. Hispanic Heritage Month. "It feels good to be chosen because people appreciate what I am trying to accomplish here at Texas A&M as a Hispanic student," he said.

Sanchez said Caliente shows unity among Hispanic organizations on campus.

"All of these groups give a lot of time and energy to come out and celebrate Hispanic Heritage Month," he said. "It gave everyone in the different organizations the chance to get to know each other better."

Before joining A&M, he taught at Emory and Henry College in Virginia and Emory University in Atlanta. He taught and worked in the administration of Clemson University and served as vice president of academic affairs at the University of Tennessee.

After 7 years as a student of the University and the System, he was System chancellor from 1977 to 1979.
