Rodman threatens to sit out over contract

DEERFIELD, III. (AP) — Dennis Rodman is unhappy with the contract agreement he reached more than a week ago and still is not officially a member of the Chicago Bulls.

Rodman and his agent, Dwight Manley, had separate meetings with Bulls general manager Jerry Krause on Monday, but there was no word the NBA's six-time rebounding leader had signed a contract.

Rodman, who is threatening to sit out the start of the regular season if certain incentive clauses aren't rewritten or eliminated, wasn't available for comment Monday. Krause and Manley refused to talk to reporters.

"Someway or other, it's going to be resolved. He's either going to be here practicing or he's not. When the Bulls have something to report, you'll hear about it," coach Phil Jackson, whose two-time defending NBA champions opened the season Oct. 31 at Boston, said.

"We'd like to have him out on the floor, but it doesn't frustrate us. We just have to be patient. In due time, we'll all get it together on the floor."

Krause and Manley announced Oct. 10 Rodman had agreed to terms on a one-year contract. But Rodman had bronchitis and slight pneumonia and was not able to complete his physical examination, and it was announced he would sign when the team returned from playing two exhibition games in France.

Upon returning, however, the Bulls learned Rodman was unhappy with several incentive clauses in the deal, which reportedly includes a base salary of about $4.5 million.

"It's very unfair, and before I sign anything I'll make sure those things are out of the contract," Rodman told the Chicago Tribune on Sunday. "I don't have a contract, and the contract they're trying to give me — I don't like it."

Rodman was especially upset with incentives tied to team performance. He claimed he was misled about the condition of Scottie Pippen, who is expected to be out until at least January after undergoing foot surgery.

"Now I hear Toni could be out for the season," Rodman said, referring to Toni Kukoc. "How many games are we going to win without Scottie and Toni?"

Jackson said reports would need foot surgery, erroneous and said the has been struggling this son only because he shape. Kukoc has said at least 90 percent healthy. But there are concerns about Kukoc's ability to last season. Ron Harper and Longley have chronic problems. And even Jordan, an ironman whose career, will miss the three exhibition games, but having some ingrown removed Sunday.

Jackson was asked would say to Rodman a victory-total issue. "I think Dennis is representing himself to the Bulls. What's important is that Dennis to play with a full unit. Everybody
