

The Immortal by James

The Story So Far..
In the last twenty five years, a ruthless dictator named Kaus Mordeen has conquered and enslaved countless civilizations. Now, an immortal named Gyges has emerged from the past, to put an end to Kaus Mordeen's tyranny.

Kaus Mordeen's war machine has spread..

The battle ships and intergalactic class vessels are stored in underground vaults. Frankly, I think sneaking in is impossible.

Who said anything about "sneaking" in?

"We hope to continue to diversify to attract students and faculty members."

Hamelers also said the Replant committee hopes to gain more participants from the Bryan-College Station community for '98 Replant. She said Replant is working on presentations to promote awareness at the elementary, middle and high schools in Bryan-College Station.

"One of our main goals is to increase involvement within the Bryan-College Station community," Hamelers said. "We have been going to businesses and [we are working on] planting trees at local schools."

HALL

As commander of NATO's Allied Air Forces Southern Europe, he directed air operations over Bosnia. Prior to his 1996 retirement, he was "triple-hatted" as concurrent commander of the U.S. Space Command, North American Aerospace Defense Command and Air Force Space Command.

Plaques containing the portraits and biographies of each inductee are displayed on oak panels in the Hall of Honor at the north end of the main hall of the Corps Center.

Maj. Gen. M.T. "Ted" Hopgood, commandant of the Corps of Cadets, presided over the ceremonies.

"Out of the Corps of Cadets come many outstanding individuals," he said. "The former cadets we honor today have truly excelled."

Dr. Ray M. Bowen, University president, said he recognized the values the Corps instills in its students.

"The Hall of Honor serves two purposes," he said. "It is to honor outstanding former cadets and to teach a high standard of leadership. The Aggies we recognize today will help point the way for the future of the Corps."

Eight former cadets were selected initially for the Hall of Honor. Four new members are chosen each year to join the distinguished group.
