Three ways to beat the high cost of college.

- 1. The Montgomery GI Bill
2. Student loan repayment
3. Part-time Income

The Army Reserve Alternate Training Program is a smart way to pay for college. First, if you qualify, the Montgomery GI Bill can provide you with up to $7,124 for current college expenses or approved w/tech training. Second, if you have—or obtain—a qualified student loan not in default, you may get it paid off at the rate of 15% per year or $500, whichever is greater, up to a maximum of $10,000. Selected military skills can double that maximum. Third, you can earn part-time money in college, and here's how it works: One summer you take Basic Training, and the next summer you receive skill training at an Army school. You'll earn over $1,500 for Basic and even more for skill training. Then you'll attend monthly meetings at an Army Reserve unit near your college, usually one weekend a month plus two weeks a year. You'll be paid over $107 a weekend to start. It's worth thinking about. Give us a call:

Calvin Davis return uncertain

While the Texas A&M Basketball Team struggles to find their next few conference games, junior forward Calvin Davis was forced to watch from the sidelines against Baylor and Oklahoma State. Davis, who missed previous games because of a knee injury, underwent an MRI on Monday and was diagnosed with a stress fracture in his back. The injury occurred in practice on Jan. 12. Davis is expected to hold him out of action for at least ten days. "Calvin will undergo surgery if the MRI shows anything," Barone said. "Right now we don't
