

Aggies drop heartbreaker to C

By JEFF WEBB
Staff writer

The Colorado Buffaloes entered Wednesday night's game against Texas A&M with a seven-game road losing streak, while the Texas A&M Men's Basketball Team owned a six-game conference losing streak. Something had to give, and Colorado found a way to send the Aggies to a 68-67 defeat.

Texas A&M found itself leading by as many as 20 points in the first half but was unable to put the game away late in the game due to its inability to hit free throws.

With the score 67-61, guard Jerald Brown missed the front end of a one-and-one that could have put the Aggies ahead by eight points with 3:31 to go in the game. However, the poor foul shooting that has plagued the Aggies all year haunted them in the waning moments of the game.

On the ensuing Colorado possession, three offensive rebounds led to an eventual three-pointer by CU forward Marlon Hughes that cut A&M's lead to 67-64. Two missed A&M shots coupled with a made jumper by Colorado made it a one-point game at 67-66. Colorado never staked a claim to the lead the entire game until Hughes drove the lane and nailed a difficult leaning shot with six seconds left to play.

The game ended when a missed jumper by A&M guard Steve Houston fell short as time expired, leaving A&M with its seventh conference loss of the season. Texas A&M Coach Tony Barone said that despite the hard play by A&M, Colorado earned the win.

"We had chances to end the game with a free throw, but we missed it," Barone said. "They made good shots, and they deserved to win. The kids are devastated right now. It's a very tough loss."

A&M forward Aaron Jack fouled out of the game with 4:13 left when he received a technical foul for apparently arguing a call. When he left, he was leading the Aggies in rebounds with nine.

Barone held players out of the postgame press conference but said the loss of Jack hampered the team down the stretch.

"(Losing) Jack was a loss for us because he was doing a good job on the glass," Barone said. "The technical foul was really a quick whistle. I thought you should warn the kid."

Shanne Jones led the Aggies in scoring with 24 points and added nine rebounds. Chris Clayton had 10 points on 2-of-3 three-point shooting. Brian Barone dished out six assists to go along with four steals. Texas A&M travels to Norman to face the Oklahoma Sooners Saturday.
