Texas A&M graduate student arrested

By Amanda Smith
Staff writer

A Texas A&M University graduate student was released from the Limestone County Sheriff's Department on $25,000 bond Jan. 27 after being arrested for charges of sexual assault of a fifteen-year-old girl, University Police Department Detective Sgt. Jim Lindholm said. Obed Matus, a Ph.D. student and mathematics graduate assistant, was arrested Jan. 26 by the Limestone County Sheriff's Department.

Limestone County notified the UPD that they had a warrant for the arrest of Matus on charges of sexual assault of a child.

The UPD assisted with the execution of the arrest and the transportation of Matus to Limestone County, Lindholm said.

"Matus and the girl came together through e-mail and that led to a meeting," Lindholm said. "The Limestone County Sheriff's Department's case (against Matus) is very strong."

The UPD may assist the Limestone County Sheriff's Department with further investigation, particularly regarding the execution of search warrants, Lindholm said.

Lane Stephenson, deputy director of University Relations, the Student Affairs department will handle the case on Matus at the University.

"By virtue of him being a student, there is some process," Stephenson said. "The facts are being gathered and that action will be taken by the fact finding."

Lindholm said no trial Matus has been set.

EXPANSION

"Outside amenities will include chair-back seats, overhead cover, television monitors and cupholders."

Scruggs said the project is being funded by proceeds from seat sales.

"The project is being financed via private donations through the 12th Man Foundation and suite revenues through the athletic department."

He said the tickets will be sold through the athletic department and to donors of the 12th Man Foundation.

Scruggs said the construction will reduce the capacity for the '98 football season.

"Capacity will be reduced to between 58,000 and 60,000 seats for the '98 football season," he said. "This is due to the fact that the current north end zone seating will be removed and the process of rebuilding for the '99 season will have begun."

The expansion will increase the capacity when completed from 70,000 to 80,000. The University expects the project to be completed for the first football game in '99.

FUTURE

-Increase under-represented populations among faculty, staff and students by 20 percent.

-Increase graduate student enrollment by 20 percent and maintain current undergraduate population.

-Continue development of the Bush school and programs in government and public service.

-Increase research expenditures from $367 to $420 million per year.

-Increase starting salaries at Texas A&M to be competitive with salaries at other state institutions.

-Increase the number of graduating students with foreign study experience from 20 percent to 25 percent.

-Increase by 15 percent the overall number of endowed chairs, endowed professorships, graduate student fellowships and undergraduate scholarships.

MATH & SCIENCE MAJORS:

Cultivate the minds of America's students while gaining the experience to grow your career.

Teach For America, the national teacher corps of outstanding recent college graduates, is looking for standout math and science grads who want to make a difference. You'll have the unique opportunity to benefit the students in America's urban and rural public schools by opening their eyes to the worlds of math and science. But you'll also create some lasting rewards for yourself...

Any path you eventually decide to follow—research, graduate school, classroom teaching, or corporate life—will be significantly impacted by your experiences in Teach For America. And through the Math and Science Initiative, you will have the opportunity to develop partnerships with people in the mathematical, engineering, and applied science communities. You will also be able to pursue a summer internship between your first and second year of teaching.

To get more information and a Teach For America application, call us, reach us online or visit your career placement office.
