"As a teacher, I would like to tell the members what it's like out there, to say 'This is the real world.' I wish everyone could teach for just one year — the kids need to see their faces," Chapa said. "I hope they don't forget what CAMAC did for them, and that they won't forget to give back."

Lodez-Aguado said CAMAC enabled her to do more than she could ever have done on her own.

"We accomplished a great deal, we brought speakers, met people we would have never met — like Selena — raised money and planned events," Lodez-Aguado said.

Chapa said the skills she learned from CAMAC were some of the most valuable assets she acquired while at A&M.

"I'm amazed at what we did," she said. "I learned more from working in committees than I ever did in classes."

Moore said the forum not only allows people to read about what other individuals are concerned about, but it brings communities together under a common bond.

"I hope they sign up and let us know what they think about the issues so we can better understand each other," he said.

NEWS BRIEFS

from staff and wire reports

Circus animals arrive for Reed Arena shows

The Texas A&M campus is preparing for a visit by "The Greatest Show On Earth."

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus will perform on July 14 and 15 at Reed Arena.

At approximately 4 p.m. today, a train carrying the circus animals will unload near F&B road.

The animals, including elephants, horses, camels and others, will then walk to Reed Arena along John Kimbrough Blvd.

The best place to watch the procession is near Reed Arena, Steven Hodge, director of Special Event Facilities, said. Parking is available near the arena as well as along Kimbrough.

Reed Arena's box office is extending its hours because of the circus.

Today, the box office will be open from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

On the days of the performances, Tuesday and Wednesday, the box office will open at 9 a.m. and stay open until after the show begins.

Show times are Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday at 3:30 and 7:30 p.m.

One hour before each performance, the circus will have a "three-ring adventure" for the audience at no extra charge.

Attendees will be able to try on costumes, walk a low wire and learn other tricks of the trade.

For additional information, call 862-REED.

Business department given more appropriate name

The Department of Business Analysis and Research has a new name.

The department in the Lowry Mays College & Graduate School of Business is now known as the Department of Information and Operations Management.

Dean Wichern, interim department head, said "The name change better reflects what the department is about."

According to departmental materials, "Students with this degree can hope to find jobs in industries and organizations influenced by rapidly changing technologies."

A new department head is expected to be named by early August.

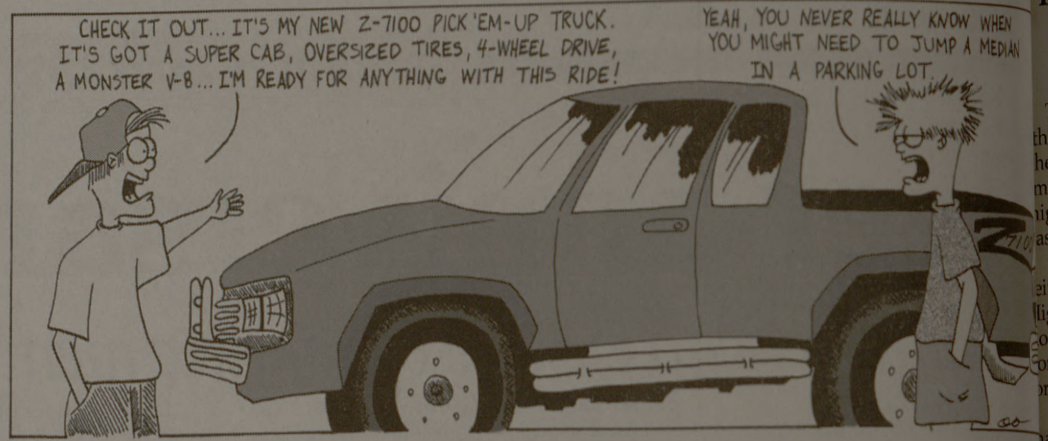

A&M library prepares to move to new location

The Cushing Memorial Library is moving. Starting today until July 27, materials from the Cushing Library will be moved from the second floor of Sterling C. Evens Library to the permanent Cushing Memorial Library building.

This newly refurbished structure is located on the west side of Evans.

Youth shot in spine by teenager stealing bike

HOUSTON (AP) — A 10-year-old boy may never walk again after he was shot in the spine by a teenager who stole his new bicycle.

Roland Sanders Jr. was in critical condition Sunday in the pediatric intensive care unit at Ben Taub Hospital.

As he fights to recover, his family is left asking questions that have no apparent answers.

"Who would shoot a 10-year-old boy over a little bike?" Roland's uncle, Keith Sanders, said. "His parents are not angry. They're just very hurt. My brother is sad his son won't enjoy the benefits of a full life."

Roland was shot Friday as he and two friends rode their bikes to a store just a few blocks from his home, authorities said.

Roland had bought his bike just hours earlier, with $75 he saved from mowing lawns.

When the teenager tried to take the bike, Roland resisted. But when the teen pulled a gun, Roland tried to cooperate.

The robber shot him anyway, then calmly pedaled away, witnesses said. Police have made no arrests.

Sanders said Roland was alert Saturday and able to tell his family what had happened.

"One of the first things he told his dad was he doesn't want any more bicycles," Sanders said.
