Boogie Nights star atte to correct financial pro

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Burt Reynolds is getting reorganized — financially speaking — to end his bankruptcy.

Reynolds' creditors "still have some terms that we're arguing over but we're substantially in agreement" on his plan of reorganization, according to their lawyer, Bob Gilbert. The plan now goes before U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Paul Hyman for approval at a hearing tentatively set for October. "Mr. Reynolds would be out of bankruptcy protection and could get on with his life," a Reynolds' lawyer, Jim Leshaw, said.

Reynolds declared more than $10 million in debts for Chapter 11 protection in 1996.

In the proposed plan, creditors would get up to Reynolds' future earnings over two years, Leshawsai Reynolds, the star of the Smokey and the Bandit many other films, earned a best supporting actor Acade nomination last year for Boogie Nights.

Good movie hunting Driver takes on period piece in new film, The Governess

NEW YORK (AP) - After avoiding the clichéd British costume drama with fresh, modern roles in Good Will Hunting, Big Night and Grosse Pointe Blank, Minnie Driver took the lead in the period piece The Governess.

"I wanted to do a period drama, but I didn't want it to be chocolate-boxy," Driver said in Sunday editions of The New York Times. "And sure enough, along came this twisted take on spiritual subterfuge and blind eroticism." It's the story of a young Jewish woman in 1840s London who learns she must hide her religious faith to find work as a governess.

"I'm fascinated by how much we, as women, have to subjugate and hide ourselves in order to get on in the world," Driver said.

The 27-year-old actress started her career on British television before landing the her first big movie part in Circle of Friends opposite Chris O'Donnell. Steady work in U.S. films lead Driver to relocate to Hollywood, where some mistake her for an American because she mimics the accent perfectly. "I think I'm viewed as being a bit of a traitor in Britain," Driver, who earned a best supporting actress Academy Award nomination for Good Will Hunting, said.

First person to hike Appalachian Trail in 194 makes third journey down the path 50 years la

PINE GROVE, Pa. (AP) — Earl Shaffer stopped to catch his breath. He adjusted the canvas straps of his 25-pound backpack and looked up at the canopy of pines surrounding the Appalachian Trail he had followed for the past 82 days.

Only 1,080 miles to go. "I'm amazed I've made it this far," Shaffer, who 50 years ago became the first to hike the 2,160mile trail from Georgia to Maine in one uninterrupted trip, said. At the age of 79, he's trying to do it a third time. Alone. Some people say I'm a legend. I don't know. I just keep going," Shaffer, who lives five miles from the trail in York Springs, Pa, said. This time along the trail, inclines seem steeper and more frequent, and he often rests on uphill sections. On the other hand, he said, the woods are more lush and the trail is cleared and marked better than on his first trek.

Shaffer reached the halfway point near Pine Grove, Pa., in July and will be heading into New
