WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats, joined by a top Republican senator, spoke Sunday of a punishment short of impeachment for President Clinton and demanded his lawyers end "legal hairsplitting" as they rebut Kenneth Starr's report.

"There's going to be some sort of sanction here," Sen. Orrin Hatch, chairperson of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said. "The question is what — from impeachment to censure to rebuke to condemnation or what," the Utah Republican said.

Added Rep. David Bonior of Michigan, the second-ranking House Democrat: "I think in the days and months ahead you will find people talking about the middle option, that of a public rebuke for his personal behavior."

At the same time, with midterm elections looming, several Democrats said they hope the issue can be dealt with swiftly.

Clinton skipped church services during the day, remaining out of the public eye in the White House.

But with his presidency clearly in peril, Clinton's lawyers and aides fanned out across the Sunday television talk shows to declare that whatever his transgressions, he committed no impeachable offenses.

Starr's report, released Friday, cites 11 potentially impeachable offenses, all stemming from Clinton's sexual relationship with former intern Monica Lewinsky — described in explicit detail — and his later denials under oath.

The White House issued a blistering rebuttal Saturday that accused Starr of a "hit-and-run smear campaign" without any legal merit.

Clinton's lead attorney, David Kendall, argued in the same vein in an appearance on ABC's "This Week" program: "The president did not commit perjury. Starr's report is full of graphic and unnecessarily salacious material. It is not relevant."

That type of lawyerly defense drew dismissive reaction from Sen.

Bob Kerrey, D-Neb., said he is going to do that, "keeping along side the Nation."

"He is being with this legal game. He is being with this legal game."

At the same House's count Starr was among the public on Saturday, for those responsible included numerous details in his report.

Only 33 percent to prove perjury. Hatch said he is on his car. Asked whether him he might accept censure, he did not.
