Lechner Hall marks 10th anniversary with reunion for past, present residents

BY PATRICK PEABODY
The Battalion

The first Lechner Hall reunion will be held Saturday. It has been 10 years since Lechner first housed students, and the Honors department decided the anniversary would be the perfect time for a reunion.

Heidi Bludau, an adviser in the Honors Office and former resident of Lechner Hall, is coordinating the reunion.

"The idea of having a reunion really sparked some interest in the Honors Department," he said, "and an anniversary this year seemed like a perfect time to have it."

Bludau said they are expecting a good turnout for the first reunion.

"We sent out invitations to everyone we had addresses for," Bludau said, "which was around 1,500 former and present residents, and we are expecting around 250 people to come. That doesn't seem like many, but it is a good start."

Sam Keen, the president of Lechner Hall and a freshman chemical engineering major, said he is looking forward to the reunion.

"I think it is a really great idea," Keen said. "We get to see all of the students that were here before us. We get to see where they ended up and perhaps where we might end up. The former residents are like a pilot program for us, and we can see some of what is in store for us."

Bludau said the reunion will be more of a family reunion than just a dorm reunion.

"The honors students form close bonds at Lechner, and we become a family," he said. "The former residents coming back will see some of their traditions carried on, and they will be able to see what has changed."

Keen said the reunion should be helpful for the freshmen this year.

"They will be able to see how other Lechner residents succeeded," Keen said. "It will fire them up and help them focus on their studies. I really hope this becomes an annual event."

The reunion will be held Saturday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on the east side of the Academic Building. There will be a barbecue, and at 4:30 Dr. Finnell, executive director of the Honors Program, will introduce some of Walter Lechner's grandchildren and great-grandchildren. Walter Lechner donated money to the dorm, which was opened in the Fall of 1988.
