Iraq accuses Arab neighbors of green lighting U.S. attacks

HUSSEIN

Iraq accused Arab govern-ments Wednesday of giving the United States the "green light" to step up its military campaign against President Saddam Hussein's govern-

And, in the latest show of official anger over lack of Arab support, Iraq's Parliament called on the people of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to overthrow their rulers for supporting the U.S.-British airstrikes on Iraq last month.

The "Arab masses are called upon to stage a revolution against these agent regimes," a statement issued by the Parliament said at the end of a two-day debate.

Tensions have increased since the Dec. 16-19 bombardment, with Iraqi air defense units regularly sparring with U.S. planes patrolling the no-fly zones over northern and southern Iraq. The planes have responded by firing missiles: At least two errant missiles killed 11 civilians Monday, Iraqi officials say.

A government statement said the United States was emboldened by the failure of Arab countries to criticize the attacks at their foreign ministers' meeting in Egypt on Sunday.

President Clinton "considered that as a green light ... to go on this aggressive attitude against Iraq and to go on violating its sovereignty and its skies," said the statement from an unidentified official spokesperson carried by the Iraqi

The December bombardment followed Iraq's refusal to allow some work by a U.N. commission overseeing the dismantling of Iraq's chemical, nuclear and biological weapons.

Until the commission certifies Iraq is free of illegal weapons, the U.N. Security Council cannot lift sanctions imposed after Iraq's 1990 invasion of Kuwait, which led to the 1991 Gulf

U.S. National Security Adviser Sandy Berger said Tuesday that Clinton has told the U.S. military to respond more aggressively to Iraqi challenges to American and allied aircraft in the nofly zones, which were set up by the United States and Britain to protect opposition groups.

Iraqi officials have called the no-fly zones illegal. Iraq has yet to hit any U.S. or British

Also Wednesday, Turkish Foreign Minister Ismail Cem reiterated his country's refusal to let U.S. and British jets use Turkey's Incirlik air base as a staging point for bombing raids on Iraq. He said allied warplanes coming from Incirlik could only strike at Iraqi defense systems if they were threatened.

'It is not possible under our agreements, for planes taking off from Incirlik to attack or bomb Iraq," Cem said. "They may intervene and defend themselves if they face danger."

Colombians recover from earthquake South American country still suffering from aftershocks

ARMENIA, Colombia (AP) Driven by hunger, survivors of a deadly earthquake dashed into supermarkets to strip their shelves clean Wednesday as shortages of food, water and antibiotics worsened the misery wrought by one of Colombia's worst disasters.

The toll from Monday's magnitude-6 earthquake in western Colombia reached 878 dead and more than 3,410 injured Wednesday, Red Cross spokesperson Maria Perrelet said. That number was expected to rise as more debris was cleared.

Rescue teams arrived from Britain and the United States to help find survivors and pull bodies from hundreds of downed buildings in this city of 300,000 people. Using heavy machinery, rescuers uncovered corpses throughout Armenia, but hope of finding new survivors was dwindling

With need overwhelming available supplies, Armenia's residents took matters into capacity to stop it," he said. their own hands, breaking down the gates of a downtown supermarket and stealing rice, cooking oil, flour and rum.

Debris fell from the upper reaches of the damaged fourstory building housing the store, sending panicked looters fleeing into the street in fear of aftershocks. In all, 27 aftershocks have struck Colombia since Monday, and a 5.4-magnitude quake rocked the northeast Wednesday but caused no damage Luis Valderrama, 30, and two friends pushed a red su-
