REEL CRITIQUE

MOVIE REVIEWS

She's All That Starring Freddie Prinze Jr.
and Rachel Leigh Cook
Director Robert Iscarov
Playing at Hollywood 16

A fresh approach to a used story line, She's All That combines My Fair Lady and Can't Buy Me Love to create a highly-entertaining hybrid of teen angst.

Beginning the Monday after spring break, Zach (Prinze), the high school hunk and senior class president, is dumped by his prom queen girlfriend. To salvage his wounded pride, Zach bets his best friend that he can turn the alternative, artsy, class outcast Laney Boggs (Cook) into the prom queen.

Although the ending is obvious long before the movie's conclusion, She's All That is a movie with interesting characters and a mostly realistic view of teen life.

Prinze as Zach adds depth and intelligence to the normally shallow "most popular kid in school" character. Cook (of "Dawson's Creek" fame) also brings a surprising sensitivity to her character that pulls the movie through its more clichéd moments. Matthew Lillard (Scream) adds hilarity and a touch of sarcasm to the film as a loser role on the real-life MTV show "The Real World."

Director Iscarov, a former choreographer, does stumble a few times — the "Soul Train"-esque dance scene at the senior prom is completely improbable and the movie itself is a bit of a boy-meets-girl '80s throwback. Overall, She's All That is a good idea for a Valentines' date. (Grade: B)

Gloria
Starring Sharon Stone
Directed by Sidney Lumet
Playing at Hollywood 16

Sidney Lumet is a man of many credits. With some 50 Academy Award nominations under his belt and a film portfolio including Dog Day Afternoon and Network, Lumet has become a Hollywood legend.

Unfortunately, a wrong turn was made when Gloria was brought to the drawing board.

Gloria opens with the title character (Stone) being escorted out of jail in a slinky black dress, while the other female inmates taunt and jeer.

Stone plays tough, but her New York accent is grating. Her ty is always prevalent and unfortunately in this film it not include the confidence character as she did in Basic Instinct.

This film may make you laugh, will surely make you cry and will definitely make you glad to see their lives that bad after all. (Grade: B)

Stone stars in remake of Gloria

St. John's Wort is commonly used to combat stress, minor depression and alcohol cravings. It can also be taken for intestinal and stomach ailments, as well as anemia, headaches, jaundice, menstrual pains and chest congestion. St. John's Wort is also available in a lotion form acting as an antibiotic, healing minor skin wounds and burns.

The most famous Chinese herb is Ginseng. It is the most widely recognized plant used in traditional medicine. Ginseng is commonly used to reduce the effects of stress, boost energy levels, enhance memory and regulate the immune system.

Andy Leatherman, a freshman general studies and basketball player at A&M, said he takes Ginseng before games.

"It gives me energy and allows me to complete the game," he said. "Ginseng also supplies vitamins and minerals that keep me from getting tired."

The use of herbal remedies is becoming increasingly popular, allowing consumers to purchase most grocery and health food stores, as well as catalog orders.
