Judge rules Clinton in contempt of court

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A federal judge ruled President Clinton in contempt of court Monday for giving "intentionally false" testimony about his relationship with Monica Lewinsky during questioning in the Paula Jones sexual harassment case.

CLINTON

The judge's finding, a civil rather than criminal ruling, orders Clinton to pay Jones "any reasonable expenses including attorneys' fees caused by his willful failure to obey this court's discovery orders."

U.S. District Judge Susan Webber Wright said she would delay enforcement for 30 days to give Clinton an opportunity to ask for a hearing or file a notice of appeal.

The ruling stemmed from Clinton's sworn statement in the Jones case that he didn't have a sexual relationship with the former White House intern.

Wright said in her ruling, "The record demonstrates by clear and convincing evidence that the president responded to plaintiffs' questions by giving false, misleading and evasive answers that were designed to obstruct the judicial process."

"The court takes no pleasure whatsoever in holding this nation's president in contempt of court."

Wright said Jones was entitled to information regarding any state or federal employee with whom the president had or proposed to have sexual relations.

In his deposition in the Jones case, Clinton said: "I have never had sexual relations with Monica Lewinsky."

After the president's DNA was found on a dress belonging to Lewinsky, he acknowledged an "inappropriate intimate relationship" with her before a federal grand jury last Aug. 17 — and again in a nationally televised address.

Clinton said the relationship did not fall under the definition of "sexual relations" provided by Jones' lawyers during his deposition, and that his testimony was legally accurate.

Jim Kennedy, spokesman for the White House counsel's office, said Monday there would be no comment until the president's personal attorney in the case, Robert Bennett, had an opportunity to review the judge's ruling.

Wright first raised the contempt issue in a footnote to a Sept. 1, 1998, ruling in which Clinton's testimony was found to be false.

In that footnote, Wright had concerns about the deposition but made no ruling on possible contempt.

In her decision, Wright wrote, "It is difficult to see how the president's statements ... as anything but willful refusal to obey discovery orders."

"Simply put, the president's position testimony whether he had ever had sexual relations with Ms. Lewinsky was willfully false and his statements whether he had ever had sexual relations with Ms. Lewinsky were willfully false."

"The court takes no pleasure whatsoever in holding this nation's president in contempt of court"

Firefighters perform daring rescue

ATLANTA (AP) — A construction worker was trapped Monday on top of a burning crane above a raging fire at an old mill that was being converted to apartments.

Firefighters made a desperate appeal for aircraft to try to pluck him from his perilous position. At least one chopper tried to swoop in, but flew away when the flames got too close.

The man, who was not identified, crawled to the end of the crane's horizontal arm to get away from the black smoke and flames rising from the five-story red brick building. He seemed calm and alert as he lay on his belly, the crane swaying in winds that gusted above 20 mph.

Smoke and flame could be seen at the center of the crane, about 20 feet from where he was.

Firefighters said they had no way of getting someone above him to rappel down and grab him.

"We have the (rappelling) equipment, we just need a helicopter to lift the guy off the crane," said Fire Department spokesperson Connie Smith.

There was no immediate word on how the fire started or what the man was doing on the crane.

Firefighters aimed hoses at the flames, but Smith said they were more concerned with rescuing the worker than with putting the fire out.

NATO attacks focus on fuel supplies

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A new wave of NATO attacks Monday targeted fuel depots and heavy industry, and an allied hit turned a Yugoslav passenger train into a heap of burning wreckage, killing at least nine people and injuring 16. NATO said the bridge the train was crossing was the intended target.

Even as the alliance expressed regret over loss of civilian life, NATO foreign ministers — meeting for the first time since the nearly three-week-long air campaign began — vowed to press ahead, saying the Kosovo crisis "represents a fundamental challenge to the values of democracy, human rights and the rule of law."

Yugoslavia's parliament, meanwhile, voted to join an alliance with Russia and

San Francisco eatery offers free lunch to patrons willing to get tattoo

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some people are willing to get a tattoo for a free burrito.

A Mexican restaurant offered a lunch to anyone willing to get a tattoo. Jimmy the Corn Man, a sombrero-wearing boy riding a blazing cornucopia, is the tattoo — any size, on any part of the body, for a free meal.

Since word of the promotion got out, 39 people have braved the tattoo for a permanent coupon at Casa Sanchez.

"Some people do it for the love of the food, some for the beer and the taco," said student Thomas Judd, 31, pacing nervously before getting the tattoo — his first — on his arm.

A much-tattooed Guido Brenner has a size Corn Man emblazoned under his right arm, the only open space he had left.

"Actually everybody's dug it, even my dad," said Judd. "She looked at me kind of funny, but she took her there for lunch. She was like, 'The restaurant is really good.'"

Marty Sanchez, whose grandfather founded Casa Sanchez in 1927, came up with the idea of using a color computer printer. She taped a sign to the window with the restaurant's logo that read: "Get a tattoo and get free lunch here."

Her sister and brothers thought the sign was strange and kept taking the sign down, so she put it back up.
