PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Eyes Wide Shuts lands an R rating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Stanley Kubrick's final film, Eyes Wide Shut, avoided the dreaded NC-17 rating.

KIDMAN

Instead, the Motion Picture Association of America on Friday gave an R rating to the movie, which is about a married couple's sexual obsession.

Release of a steamy, 90-second snippet from the movie starring Tom Cruise and Nicole Kidman triggered discussion about an NC-17 rating, which can be a box office killer because nobody under 17 is allowed in due to "explicit sexual content and dialogue."

The clip showed Kidman standing naked in front of a mirror with Cruise, shown nude from the waist up, caressing and kissing her.

Kubrick died in March after completing the film.

Actor Greg Kinnear marries in England

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Greg Kinnear got hitched over the weekend to his girlfriend of six years.

The actor married British model-turned-writer Helen Labdon on Saturday in an 11th-century church in Sussex, England, publicist Paul Bloch said Monday.

The two are honeymooning at an undisclosed location.

They live in Los Angeles. It is the first marriage for both.

Kinnear, 34, was nominated for a best supporting actor Oscar for As Good As It Gets.

Dead Broke debut airs on Internet

NEW YORK (AP) — A personal computer and an Internet connection will get you into the movie premiere of Dead Broke, a black comedy starring Paul Sorvino.

The film is believed to be the first to debut simultaneously on the Internet and the big screen.

Dead Broke, directed by Edward Vilga, is the first of four films that iFilm Network, in conjunction with Globix, Microsoft and the Tribeca Film Center, will premiere on the Internet.

iFilm is an online community of independent filmmakers and fans.

PC users will need a super-fast T-1 connection to watch the movie "seamlessly," but iFilm founder Rodger Raderman said a fast connection will provide decent images and sound.

Dead Broke can be seen at www.ifilm.net at 2 p.m. EDT on Wednesday.

Rockefeller divorce
sparks trust debate

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Closely guarded details of the John D. Rockefeller family fortune could become public in the messy divorce of the oil baron's great-great grandson.

Attorneys are battling over whether information about four family trusts, said to be worth billions, should be made public in the divorce of George O'Neill Jr. and his wife, Amy O'Neill. The Orlando Sentinel reported Monday.

Judge Charles Prather has ordered the sides to come to an agreement by Thursday.

Lawyers for the Rockefellers have filed hundreds of court documents to preserve the confidentiality of the family's financial history.

Singer Paycheck returns home

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Johnny Paycheck is home after five months in a hospital for lung and asthma trouble.

The 60-year-old performer was released Saturday from an Atlanta hospital, manager Marty Martel said Monday.

Gumbel to host
'This Morning'

NEW YORK (AP) — Bryant Gumbel is about to get back to the morning television game.

CBS has called a news conference for Tuesday, where it is expected to announce that Gumbel will take over as host of the long-leagued morning show, This Morning, executives said Monday.

The network will also announce plans to build a new studio for the show, the sources said.

Gumbel has largely been the air since the cancellation of the news magazine, "Public Eye Bryant Gumbel," last year.

"Today" after 15 years in 1984 sign a lucrative contract with CBS. "This Morning" has a consistent third in the ratings behind "Today" and ABC's "Good Morning America." The ABC raised the stakes in the morning news competition earlier this year when it brought Charles G. and Diane Sawyer in as temporary hosts.

Ratings for "Today" blossomed after it began televising from a studio with a window facing the city in Rockefeller Center.

ABC subsequently built a building at Times Square and CBS hopes to use space at the Fifth Avenue near Central Park.

"This Morning" is expected to be a success, seeing as how Gumbel has left long trails of success behind him.
