BY BREE HOLZ

The Texas A&M Volleyball Team swept its opponents to win the GTE Aggie Volleyball Classic this weekend at G. Rollie White Coliseum. The Aggies extended their nine-match winning streak to improve to 9-1 on the season.

After defeating Santa Clara University Thursday, the Aggies defeated University of Iowa, 15-7, 15-3, 15-3, in their second match of the tournament Friday afternoon.

In game one, Iowa jumped to a 5-1 lead, but the Aggies answered by scoring 13 straight points to take a 14-5 lead. Iowa scored two more points, but an ace by sophomore outside hitter Erin Gibson ended the first game.

The Aggies hit .135 in the first game, compared to Iowa's .186. But the Aggies quickly found their rhythm in game two, and hit .643 to the Hawkeyes .174 to bring the second game to a fast close.

The Aggies jumped to an 8-3 lead in the third game and then scored the final seven points without a sideout to end the match. The Aggies outthrew Iowa in the third game .375 to -.028.

Senior outside hitter Summer Strickland led the Aggies with six kills, and senior outside hitter Celia Howes recorded 11 digs. Senior middle blocker Lauri Leahy posted four blocks for A&M.

A&M volleyball coach Laurie Corbelli said the team had to work hard to develop its normal rhythm.

"They were serving high and deep, which slowed our offense," she said. "We picked our rhythm as the match went on and were able to minimize our hitting errors."

The Aggies downed University of Georgia, 15-11, 15-5, 15-12, in their final match of the tournament Friday night.

The Georgia Bulldogs scored the first point of the first game on a kill, but the Aggies bounced back with seven straight points and kills by senior middle blocker Amber Woolsey and Strickland.

A huge block by Woolsey and sophomore setter Jenna Moskovic put the Aggies up 9-3. But three consecutive kills by the Bulldogs cut the lead to 9-6 which forced the first A&M timeout. Kills from Woolsey and Leahy and an ace by Moskovic raised the score to 13-7.

Georgia managed to score four more points on Aggie hitting errors and net violations. But the Aggie blocking prevailed as Leahy posted a block to score game point and Woolsey and Strickland teamed up with another block to end game one.

Georgia jumped to a quick 2-0 lead in the second game, but the Aggies rallied six straight points with monster blocks by Leahy and kills by Gibson.

With the score at 6-2, the Bulldogs called a timeout to slow the Aggie momentum. However, the Aggies did not let up, and kills by Woolsey, Gibson and Strickland gave the Aggies an 11-2 lead.

A&M scored game point on a Gibson kill, and a Georgia hitting error brought game two to a close.

Game three began with a defensive stop by the Bulldogs. Georgia scored three of their first four points of the game by blocking the Aggie attacks and forcing a timeout.

Nothing could trigger the Aggie offense, and another timeout was taken with A&M down 1-8. Nevertheless, a towering block by Woolsey and Moskovic sparked the offense and cut the lead 6-10.

The Aggies began finding holes in the Bulldog defense, and the smart placement of tips tied the score. Howes aced Georgia for game point, and Gibson ended the game match with a kill.

"You have to have a game plan, and know how to rebound and their cool and know how to use momentum back," Corbelli said. "That's what I'm most proud of this match."

Woolsey led all hitters with 11 kills and a .533 hitting percentage while Moskovic recorded 10 kills.

Woolsey was named MVP of the tournament. She hit .397 overall, averaged 4.00 kills and 1.25 per game.

Also named to the All-Tournament team was Moskovic, Leahy and Woolsey.

Aggies fall to Irish, defeat Commodores at Adidas Classic

The Texas A&M Soccer Team traveled to Klein, Texas, this weekend for the Adidas College Classic, where they were outscored by the University of Notre Dame, 1-0, Friday but defeated Vanderbilt University, 5-1, yesterday.

The Aggies and the Irish were unable to produce many scoring opportunities in their defensive-oriented game, combining for only eight shots on goal.

Midway through the first half, Notre Dame midfielder Jenny Streiffer scored the only goal of the game, giving the Irish a one-goal lead.

The Aggies regrouped at halftime and came out with a resurgence of energy and aggressiveness they had not shown earlier in the game, pressuring their opponent and keeping the ball on Notre Dame's side of the field.

A&M soccer coach G. Guerrieri said he was impressed with the team's response in the second half.

"I thought we made some good adjustments at halftime," he said. "And the players came out and played without abandonment in the second half and showed a lot of what we're capable of doing."

The Aggies bounced back in Sunday's game against Vanderbilt with a 5-1 victory. Junior forward Nickey Thrasher scored two goals of the game to give A&M a 2-0 lead.

Junior midfielder Allison Pease scored for the Aggies to continue the comeback. Sophomore defender Laurie Loyd was able to place the ball in the back of the net for her first goal of the season.

A&M played all 26 players in their first game against Vanderbilt.

The Aggie defense also had a bit of trouble in the second half, as they held the Lady Commodores to only two shots, while the offense was able to score on the ball 22 times.
