We'll Pay You To Have Exciting Weekends.

The Army Reserve will give you weekend excitement like you've never had before, and you can earn more than $18,000 while you're enjoying yourself during a standard enlistment.

Think about it. On a part-time basis, usually one weekend a month plus two weeks' Annual Training, you could earn good pay, have a good time, make good friends and even be entitled to good benefits and opportunities to get money for education.

You'll also be getting hands-on training in a skill that will last you a lifetime.

Army Reserve knows how to make weekends interesting. Are you interested?

Think about it. Then think about us. Then call:

News In Brief

Texas A&M, Taiwan to sign agreement

Representatives from Texas A&M will sign a research and student-exchange agreement with Taiwanese officials today at 11:30 a.m.

A&M students will have the opportunity to study the movement of tectonic plates and the formation of the earth in Taiwan.

Among the representatives from the National Taiwan Ocean University will be Dr. Chengsung Wang, a leading Taiwanese geophysicist. Accompanying him will be Chao-Shing Lee, Ph.D., a professor of geophysics and Class of '83. The two institutions will work together to conduct oceanographic and geophysical research.

The announcement comes less than two weeks after Taiwan was hit by a massive earthquake. The earthquake, which struck Sept. 21, killed more than 2,000 people and caused damage estimated at more than $500 million.

Co-op Education to host career fair

The Office of Cooperative Education will host the Co-op Career Fair today and tomorrow in the Zachry Building lobby from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Cooperative Education offers students the chance to work in full-time, paid positions to gain professional experience while attending Texas A&M full-time.

Companies available for students to meet with will include Hewlett-Packard, Texas Instruments, Delta Airlines, Dow Chemical, IBM and DuPont.

NAACP reelects president, Bledsoe

College Station (AP) — The Texas NAACP has re-elected Gary Bledsoe as its president.

Bledsoe defeated opponent Kyeve Tatum, 118-45, Saturday during the organization's 63rd conference.

"I am very humbled by the level of support from the membership," Bledsoe said. "I will do all I can to show them that I am deserving of their support."

The state conference concluded Saturday evening with a Texas Heroes Banquet that featured keynote speaker Robert G. Stanton, director of the National Park Service and the first African-American to head the agency.

The banquet honored the late Bob Bullock, former Texas lieutenant governor, who was among the first elected officials in the state to spearhead affirmative-action hiring and the promotion of minorities.

Also honored were Dorothy and the late Frank James Robinson, recognized for their efforts in the 1970s to ensure blacks the right to vote.

The conference also revealed the results from the NAACP's first statewide study on hate crimes.

McCLESKEY

"It's a way to ensure to everyone involved that nothing is really being covered up," Duke said. "To not do so is to go against University policy."

McCleskey said his secretary and his student worker quit shortly after he left.

"Their quitting had everything to do with this incident," he said. "They also felt it was no longer an environment in which they could morally and ethically work."

Duke said the allegations of misconduct against company K-2 included making freshmen run during allotted sleeping time and harassment of freshmen during school hours.

Jenkins said his mother struggled with breast cancer, in the early years of his study in medicine.

"In 1974, my mother was diagnosed with breast cancer and given no options, and since the disease was still not spoke of in public, she had no one to turn to and the cancer consumed her," Jenkins said.

"Prevention studies did not exist, and nothing was offered to her except a debilitating radical mastectomy." He said women today have more modern treatments available to them, and of survival are just 25 percent.

"We are turning breast cancer," Jenkins said. "In 1950, if diagnosed cancer most women in five years. Now it is found early, more than 90 percent of women survive."

"Prevention awareness among women. Early detection cornerstone of management."

Over 197,000 women diagnosed with breast cancer in 1999.

GRE

Will your GRE score be high enough?

"...programs across the country...have abandoned the idea of bigger is better and have settled on a different model of graduate education: Enroll fewer students, but give all of them full financial support."
