The Texas A&M Volleyball Team handed the Oklahoma University Sooners their sixth loss of the season by defeating them 15-7, 15-10, 15-5 in front of a crowd of 1,512 at G. Rollie White Coliseum Saturday night.

The Aggies move to 13-3 on the season and 4-2 in Big 12 Conference play.

Senior middle blocker Amber Woolsey scored the first point of the first game with a kill, but the Sooners jumped to a quick 3-2 lead on two A&M errors and a service ace.

The Aggies responded by scoring the next five points, with kills from senior outside hitter Summer Strickland and sophomore outside hitter Michelle Cole.

The Sooners called a timeout with the Aggies out in front, 7-3. Sophomore setter Jenna Moskovic recorded a kill and Woolsey aced Oklahoma to move the score to 11-3.

However, the Sooners did not give up, and two services aces cut the score to 12-6. The Aggies answered by scoring game point on a Moskovic kill and an A&M block ended game one.

A&M and Oklahoma started game two by trading points before Oklahoma took a 7-5 lead and forced an Aggie timeout. Senior outside hitter Celia Howes scored the next point on a kill, but the Sooners responded with a kill of their own.

Strickland took matters into her own hands and recorded two kills and a block assist to put the Aggies up 10-9. The Sooners could manage only one more point before another Howes kill ended the second game.

Game three began much the same as game two with the Aggies and Sooners trading points early on. The Aggies took a 6-3 advantage on a kill by junior middle blocker Heather McWhirter.

to give the Aggies a 9-5 lead. The Sooners were stuck at five, and the Aggies ended the game and match on a McWhirter kill.

Senior middle blocker Lauri Leahy and Strickland each recorded 10 kills, while Howes added nine. Strickland also posted a match-high 19 digs.

Woolsey went down midway through the second game with a sprained left ankle. The Aggies, however, did not falter due to Woolsey's injury.

"As a team, we pulled together," Leahy said. "We knew we'd be okay."

"Our team is deep enough to where if we have one person go down or if someone's not playing a good game, it's gonna be because we've got enough to back them up."

McWhirter, who replaced when she injured her ankle, on starting duties while Woolsey. "[McWhirter] works hard on the court," A&M volleyball Laurie Corbelli said. "She's a starter in her career here, and a very confident player."

The Aggies begin their road trip of the season this week when they travel to Kansas State University and Kansas State University.
