The Texas A&M Volleyball Team extended its home-match winning streak to 14 games last night, defeating the Texas Tech University Red Raiders, 15-3, 15-9, 15-2, at G. Rollie White Coliseum.

The Aggies improve to 19-4 overall and 10-3 in the Big 12 Conference, while the Red Raiders fall to 15-11 and 4-9 in the Big 12.

The Aggies began the match with kills from senior outside hitter Summer Strickland and senior middle blocker Lauri Leahy. A&M jumped to a quick 6-1 lead before Texas Tech called a timeout. But the Aggies continued to dominate on the net, and extended their lead to 9-2.

After another Red Raider timeout, Strickland pounded five kills and recorded a block assist to end the first game.

Like game one, the Aggies jumped to a 5-0 lead to start the second game with kills from sophomore outside hitter Michelle Cole and senior middle blocker Amber Woolsey.

A&M found its lead extended to 9-1 before the Red Raiders began clawing their way back. Tech rallied four straight points to cut the lead to 10-5 when A&M called its first timeout of the match.

The Aggies posted two more points with a block by Woolsey and a kill from sophomore setter Jenna Moscovic, but Texas Tech would not go away.

The Aggies reached their first game point on a Red Raider hitting error but could not put the second game away. Finally, on the fourth game point, Strickland recorded a kill to end game two.

The third game also started with a 5-0 run by A&M. Hitting and service errors plagued Texas Tech, which did not manage to score a point until the Aggies jumped to a 12-0 lead.

A&M senior outside hitter Celia Howes blocks a shot against Texas Tech University last night at G. Rollie White Coliseum. The Aggies defeated the Red Raiders in three games.

The Red Raiders scored their only two points of the third game on A&M errors before attacking a ball out of bounds to hand the Aggies the game and the match.

"Our team is very resilient, and we've worked a lot on bouncing back after individual or team failure," A&M volleyball coach Laurie Corbelli said. "Our errors are becoming minimal, and it's really showing that we've made a change."

The Aggies outthrew the Red Raiders in a match, 387 to 107. Strickland recorded a high 10 kills and 13 digs and posted a 33.33 hitting percentage. Senior outside hitter Howes also recorded 13 digs in the match.

The Aggies will be in action again this week when they travel to Lincoln, Neb., to play on the University of Nebraska at 7 p.m. A&M's next home match will be Nov. 10 against the University at G. Rollie White Coliseum.
