Honolulu man pleads not guilty

HONOLULU (AP) — The copier repairman charged with gunning down seven of his Xerox co-workers pleaded not guilty yesterday to all nine counts of a grand jury indictment.

A Circuit Court judge then revoked Byran Uyesugi's $7 million bail and set a Jan. 18 trial date.

The 40-year-old Uyesugi is accused of going on a shooting spree Nov. 2 at a Xerox Corp. parts warehouse in the city's industrial district. Six of his fellow technicians and a supervisor were killed.

No motive has been released, but prosecutors said the victims were gathering for a morning meeting to discuss Uyesugi's light workload, among other things.

At least 28 bullet casings from a 9 mm semiautomatic handgun were found at the scene, meaning the gunman had time to reload, authorities said.

Uyesugi later surrendered to police after a five-hour armed standoff.

Uyesugi was indicted last week on one count of first-degree murder, seven counts of second-degree murder and one count of attempted murder in the second-degree.

Under state law, first-degree murder covers multiple killings and carries a penalty of life imprisonment without parole. Hawaii has no death penalty.

Birmingham school workers go on strike

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Hundreds of teachers, bus drivers and lunchroom workers went on strike yesterday, protesting a $30,000 raise for the city school superintendent at a time of meager pay increases for other school system employees.

Some of the system's 75 schools were virtually empty as teachers picketed the school board office.

Administrators and substitute teachers filled where they could, but many parents kept their children home from school.

"We have spoken, and no one has listened," Alabama Education Association leader Paul Hubbert told a meeting of 500 educators. "Today is the first day we have been listened to."

Teachers in Birmingham lack collective bargaining rights and do not have a contract. Hubbert said nothing in state law that says if teachers cannot get a 1958 advisory opinion from the state attorney general said teachers cannot legally strike and the boards may file suit to force strikers back to work.

Birmingham Education Association President Sykes conceded the work stoppage was probably illegal.

"We don't have a legal right to strike, and we face some problems because of it," Sykes said.
