inquired about study abroad. Of these students, 869 actually studied abroad and only 143 of them received an IEF scholarship. Last year, the number rose to 936 students abroad with 159 scholarships provided.

Once the sum set aside as an endowment reaches $4 million, the IEF fee will be discontinued and the endowment will support all future scholarships from returns from investing the $4 million.

"It's so Clinton-esque it's scary — raise the soft money, run the attack ads," McCain said of the ads on Sunday. "They're getting more and more like the Clinton campaign. They'll say anything."

Bush dismissed the complaint, saying he had nothing to do with the commercials, and campaigned with the air of a front-runner.

"My response is the independents and Republicans are going to nominate me," the Texas governor said. He began his final swing through California with a rally in Oakland and was heading back to Texas later to await the results from primaries and caucuses.

After weeks of bashing Gore, Bradley has toned down his assaults in recent days as the Super Tuesday campaign was wrapping up. Today, Bradley said he would support Gore if he's the nominee and has no interest in the vice presiden-

College of Education receives donation

A $130,000 check to be used for a teacher training program on assisting students with reading problems was given to Texas A&M's College of Education Monday.

The check, donated by GTE Southwest president Larry Atwell, was presented to Dr. Richard Parker, associate professor of educational psychology and Dr. Jan Hasbrouck, assistant professor of educational psychology.

The program, "Retraining Teachers for Students With Reading

News in Brief

Problems: Outreach Through Technology," is associated with the new Master Reading Teacher requirements and the state's requirement for the Center for Reading and Language arts.

Robinson to speak on "War on Drugs"

Texas A&M's Memorial Student Center Current Issues Awareness Committee will present "Rethinking the War on Drugs" at 7:00 p.m. in Rudder Theater.

Dr. Alan Robinson will speak. Robinson is a professor of pharmacology at M.D. Anderson Cancer Center and formerly was chair of the pharmacology department at the University of Health Science Center-Houston. Robinson also received an award from the National Academy of Science in 1979 for his scientific research.

Robinson founded the Drug Policy Forum of Texas. The forum's goal is to gather scientists, professionals and political analysts to examine the status of the nation's war on drugs. The presentation, free of charge and open to the public, will be followed by a question-and-answer session.

"[Bush's ads] are getting more like the Clinton campaign. They'll say anything."

MCCAIN

expect Bush to run an "entirely different" campaign than the bitter primary battle. "You can't win a general election with the type of campaign he's run," said McCain.

Among the keys to Tuesday's voting are New York, Ohio and California. Bush leads in Ohio and in California delegate race. Two polls released by Marist and Zogby-Reuters-MSNBC suggest that Bush and McCain are close in New York, but another by Quinnipiac Institute, gives Bush a point lead.

Bush has big leads in Missouri, Georgia and Maryland, while McCain leads in some New England states, including Massachusetts and Vermont. Bush has built an edge in Connecticut.

There are two elections going on in California, a Republican-only vote to determine who gets the 162 delegates in a nonbinding popularity contest. A tracking poll shows Bush with a narrow lead in the popular vote, which McCain wants for a symbolic victory.

McCain political director John Weaver warned that McCain badly needs "success stories in California and Ohio." McCain planned to assess things Wednesday in Arizona.
