'Multimillionaire' bride files for annulment

LAS VEGAS (AP) — TV's instant bride has filed for an annulment, saying that her quickie marriage to a multimillionaire was a fraud and that he never mentioned he "had a history of problems" with women.

Darva Conger said in court papers filed Tuesday that the marriage was never consummated and she and Rick Rockwell barely saw each other on their Caribbean honeymoon.

"Neither the contestants nor the show's producers seriously contemplated creating a proper marriage," she said.

Rockwell, 42, selected Conger, 34, from among 50 contestants on the Fox TV special "Who Wants to Marry a Multimillionaire." They married on the spot in Las Vegas during the Feb. 15 show, with more than 22 million viewers tuned in.

Despite the smash ratings, Fox canceled a rebroadcast of the show and swore off a sequel and similar program after it was disclosed that a former fiancée took out a restraining order against Rockwell in 1991 for allegedly hitting and threatening her. He denied the allegations.

Conger said in court papers that Fox misrepresented Rockwell's personality and background. Conger said she was unaware that Rockwell "had a history of problems with his prior girlfriends and was the subject of at least one restraining order for threatening and dangerous behavior."

Conger had said after returning alone from her honeymoon that she participated in the show on a lark.

She said in court papers that the marriage was a "mutual mistake of fact and was entered into solely for an entertainment purpose."

Conger and Rockwell both signed an agreement before the show that they could annul the marriage.

Clark County has no residency requirements to file for an annulment. It takes four to six weeks on average for an annulment to be approved.

Environmentalists urge Beach boycott

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Beach got a mixed reaction in Thailand, with viewers warming to images of an idyllic island but shuttering at the grim finale.

About 600 people showed Tuesday night for a charity screening of the Leonardo DiCaprio movie. The movie's general release is scheduled for Friday for the cinemas around the country.

Environmental activists are urging Thais to boycott the movie protesting alleged damage to Phi Phi Le island during the filming. They claim the filmmakers destroyed a pristine beach to make it look better on screen.

Piyoros Sirithasana, 20, a student and DiCaprio fan, said she enjoyed the movie but was upset by the violence.

"It just showed a bad image of drug-taking and killings by Thais," she said. "But the scenery of the island looked beautiful in the film."
