My parents are dead. My house is destroyed. And I'm talking to a turtle pirate who crashed landed his space ship. I must be in some dream world...

Which means I can do whatever I want!!!

Hold on a sec! I'll be right back!

What the hell are you doing?

Loading up all my dead mothers dresses! I'm going with you!

News in Brief

Church to host Easter service

Central Baptist Church will host what may be the local church service ever at the Arena this Easter weekend. The service, April 22, 10 a.m., is free of charge. Parking will be available. Dress is casual.

"We want this to be where folks can come and in a relaxed environment, inviting their friends and relatives and participate with us to celebrate the resurrection of Lord, Jesus Christ," Pastor Osborne said in a press release.

Osborne said all local churches are invited to celebrate Easter of the millennium.

"We think this first Easter new millennium is special hope as many people as will come and worship us." Central, which is the congregation in Bryan-College Station, invites all local churches, including students, who are ready have plans to attend on Easter Sunday to join in commemorating the first Easter new millennium.

This year's service will be the first time in more than a century that all members of Central will be able to worship at one time on the same roof.
