Three ways to beat the high cost of college.

1. The Montgomery GI Bill 2. Student loan repayment 3. Part-time income

The Army Reserve Alternate Training Program is a smart way to pay for college.

First, if you qualify, the Montgomery GI Bill can provide you with over $9,000 for current college expenses or approved vo/tech training.

Second, if you have—or obtain—a qualified student loan not in default, you may get it paid off at the rate of 15% per year or $1,500, whichever is greater, up to a maximum of $10,000. Selected military skills can double that maximum.

Third, you can earn part-time money in college, and here's how it works: One summer you take Basic Training, and the next summer you receive skill training at an Army school. You'll earn over $2,000 for Basic and even more for skill training. Then you'll attend monthly meetings at an Army Reserve unit near your college, usually one weekend a month plus two weeks a year. You'll be paid over $118 a weekend to start. It's worth thinking about. Give

Tyson beats Savarese in 38-second fight

Mike Tyson did not bite, nor did he punch after the bell.

Instead, he hit Lou Savarese twice after the referee had stopped what was the third-shortest fight of the former heavyweight champion's career and seventh victory achieved in less than one minute.

Then he turned his sights — and rage — on Lennox Lewis.

After dispatching Savarese in 38 seconds on a cold, rainy night at Hampden Park, Tyson said that, should he fight the current heavyweight champion, "I'll rip his heart out and feed it to him."

That is also against the Marquis of Queensberry rules.

In fact, Tyson's next foe is uncertain, but there appears to be a short list of possibilities — one that does not include Lewis.

"I really haven't thought about it," said Jay Larkin, who runs boxing for Showtime, when asked who Baum, a friend who was murderedin might be Tyson's next opponent, but Brooklyn, N.Y., two weeks ago.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) - second-round stoppage of Julius Francis on Jan. 29 at Manchester, England, indicated he does not want to be involved with Tyson again.

There were reports that Tyson allegedly attacked Warren in a dispute over who should pay for some jewelry Tyson purchased in London in January. Tyson denied the reports while Warren would not comment Warren, absent from Glasgow for most of the week, attended the fight, and there appeared to be a redness around his right eye.

Warren said 40,000 tickets were distributed for the fight, but 20,000 were returned. There had been doubts the fight would happen right up to the day of the match.

There were questions about Tyson's mental and physical condition, and Tyson said he had trained only three weeks. His training had been interrupted for several days so he could attend the funeral of Darryl

"I am not ready for Lennox Lewis. Of course, he wants to fight me right now. I am not ready yet. I need more training. I am rusty."

heavyweight boxer

he did mention Andrew Golota.

Golota twice was disqualified against Riddick Bowe for repeated low blows, and he bit Samson Pou'haon the shoulder.

Tyson, of course, was disqualified for biting Evander Holyfield's ears, and his fight against Orlin Norris was declared a no-contest when Norris could not continue after being knocked down after the bell ended the first round.

Two referees might be required for a Tyson-Golota match.

Tyson appeared at a post-fight news conference only because he went through the wrong door. He quickly turned around and returned to his hotel, and left Glasgow Sunday morning to fly to Phoenix.

While Tyson predicted he would do terrible things to Lewis, who fights François Botha July 15 at London, he said before leaving the ring, "I am not ready for Lennox Lewis. Of course, he wants to fight me right now. I am not ready yet. I need more training. I am rusty."

Frank Warren, who promoted

Savarese, 241 1/4 pounds, struggled up at the count of five, obvious ly hurt. Tyson was on him in a flash and landed four or five shots to the head. Referee John Coyle then stepped in and halted the fight.

Tyson then moved around there eree and landed two more punches. Coyle fell as he was elbowed aside. He quickly got up and pushed Tyson away as cornermen rushed into the ring. The crowd booed, not because of Tyson's actions but because the fight was over.

"He was terrifying," Larkin said "It was terrifying display of power. display of relentlessness.'

Savarese, who will turn 35 July 14, had lost three of his six previous fights, but he still was expected to give Tyson a better fight than Francis had. He never had a chance to get started, and went to a hospital after the bout for treatment of aleft ankle injury, probably sustained when he fell.

Tyson's two quickest victories were achieved in 30 seconds agains Marvis Frazier in 1986 and in 37 sec Saturday night's fight and Tyson's onds against Robert Colay in 1985.

Players prepare for Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — It is a busy night at a neighborhood Indian restaurant, and waiter Sadek Salam says such celebrities as Andre Agassi, Martina Hingis and Lindsay Davenport are frequent customers during Wimbledon. Smiling, Salam adds: "I hope Lindsay wins."

Long overlooked on the women's tour,

All it took was three Grand Slam titles and an

Davenport has finally developed a fan following.

Olympic gold medal. She still can not rival Anna Kournikova or the Williams sisters in publicity or popularity, but Davenport will attract plenty of attention as the defending champion when Wimbledon begins Monday. And she knows it.

"There are many different emotions compared to previous years," Davenport said. "Wimbledon holds pretty special memories for me now, but at the same time, there's a lot of added pressure." Four players have won the women's championship in the past four years. Davenport's foremost threats in her bid for consecutive titles include the top-seeded Hingis, French Open champion Mary Pierce and the Williams sisters, Venus and Serena.

Do not discount Kournikova, the favorite with the London tabloids. She is unseeded and has yet to win a tournament, but she reached the semifinals in 1997 at 16, and her game is well The seeding system was a topic of complaint Sunday by Spaniards Alex Corretja and Albert Costa, who threatened to boycott the tournament because they were not among the 16 the ATP rankings in determining seedings No one argued that Pete Sampras did not deserve to be seeded No. 1. He will bid for his seventh Wimbledon title and a record 13th Grand Slam championship beginning Monday against Jiri Vanek.

Wimbledon is the only Grand Slam event that does not follow seeded men, even though both are ranked in the top 15.

Sampras cut short a practice session Friday when he felt a twinge in his troublesome back, raising doubts about whether it

But he was back on the practice court Sunday, hit for an hour and said his back was ready for the tournament "It gets stiff," he said. "We've had a lot of cold, damp weather

At 100 percent, Sampras would be tough to beat. He's 46-1 at the All England Club in the past seven years, a record Davenport can appreciate as well as anyone.
