Fireman paid two salaries

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—City officials are investigating an arrangement where one firefighter worked nearly 4,200 hours in another one over a two-year period.

Log books for Station 46 show that between June 1, 1998, and June 31, 2000, Ralph Arredondo worked nearly 4,200 hours for Lt. Rick Willborn in addition to pulling most all his own 56-hour weekly assignments.

That works out to about 40 hours a week of extra time, for which Arredondo was not paid by the city, according to the San Antonio Express-News. Arredondo also worked extra shifts for other firefighters.

Over the same 24 months, Willborn, who owns a landscaping business that grosses about $1 million annually, was paid as a full-time firefighter even though he did only about 700 hours, about 15 percent of his assigned time, according to the log books.

City firefighters are allowed to swap shifts. But according to the station 46 records, Willborn has not worked any shifts for Arredondo over the past two years.

Firefighters are forbidden to work a shift for outside employment and are prohibited from paying another firefighter to cover their shift—an arrangement Willborn denied existed between he and Arredondo.

"He doesn't get anything, never paid him a penny," Willborn told the Express-News. "He said doing me a favor because he's in trouble and that's what I'm there for. I believe he deserves a medal."

Sampras

WIMBLEDON—Andre Agassi's record-tying seventh Wimbledon title on Monday night when Sampras glistered from the shadows whacked his final 7-6 (5), 6-4, 6-2.

Rarely emotional, Sampras meant to win the point, then climbed to his mother and father for the first time.

"It's not a roller coaster these days. The nervousness is coming back off. It's just worked out."

"I wanted to say, 'As much as I love you, there's no way I'm going to invite them here. I made the trip.'" Sampras said.

Sampras is the only day on which he watched their son win five straight Grand Slam titles. It's possible he's hitting a home run.

Sampras has a three-time champion someone you can't ever come close to. Sampras is a four straight Wimbledon champion. No Wimbledon is a harder feat than Sampras' Wimbledon. He could not practice before them until later than the
