Strawberry loses kidney to cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Darryl Strawberry had his left kidney removed during cancer surgery earlier this month, placing another hurdle in his possible return to baseball.

A friend of the former Yankees slugger confirmed a report in Tuesday's Newsday that Strawberry's surgery Aug. 7 was more serious than previously indicated and led to the removal of the kidney.

It was not immediately known why the kidney had been removed. After the operation, doctors said they removed a tumor near his left kidney and there was no obvious spread of cancer. The doctors were optimistic for an "uneventful recovery."

After spending 11 days at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center, Strawberry, 38, quietly returned home to Tampa, Fla., last week, where his is "emotionally and physically tired," according to the friend, who spoke to the Associated Press on condition he not be identified.

It is expected that Strawberry will need another round of chemotherapy. Strawberry had a tumor removed from his colon in October 1998. Strawberry's future in baseball once again is in doubt. He returned from his first cancer surgery to the Yankees in spring training 1999.

When he did not make the team Strawberry was depressed and was soon arrested on charges of cocaine possession and solicitation. He turned from a suspension in September to help the Yankees win their third World Series title in four years.

Strawberry was suspended again in February for testing positive for drugs and had hoped to have his suspension reduced and rejoin the Yankees this season. But then his cancer returned and an investigation began last month to see if he had violated probation.

Strawberry has one functioning kidney and would not necessarily need a transplant.

average teams," Guerrieri said. "The teams over there are really, really good or bad. We had the good fortune to play some of the good teams and win. The one game we lost against Holland, though, may have been just as valuable because we needed to see how teams can beat us."

Any questions about A&M's offensive firepower were answered during the tour. The Aggies had 14 players combine for the 29 goals in Europe, with eight players scoring multiple goals.

Senior forward Nicky Thrasher, sophomore forward Heather Ragsdale and sophomore midfielder Andrea Starns each scored four goals on the road.

For Texas A&M that was the most valuable lesson of all — how to score.

most formidable opponent an NCAA soccer team can face. However, Aggies cannot afford to take Central Florida lightly, either. The Knights coming off an NCAA tournament and have a lot of talent and speed that could pose a challenge for the Aggies.

"It's great that we get to play a team that advanced to the second round of NAAs and has big game experience," Guerrieri said. "It's a great first game for us, especially we can come out with a win."

This weekend will serve as a leaping point for what the Aggies hope to turn into a Top 10 season as a second Big 12 Championship.

For now A&M will concentrate on the biggest weekend in the history of the Aggie Soccer Complex. Friday's kickoff against Central Florida will be at 7:30 p.m. with Sunday highlight scheduled for 1 p.m.
