U.S. leading Olympic race

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The last time an American woman won a gold medal in platform diving, the Olympics offered no competition for women in soccer or basketball. Welcome to the 21st century. On Sunday, Laura Wilkinson led America's 36-year skein of diving futility by shocking the defending champion Chinese on the 10-meter platform. As she dove for the gold, women's soccer team advanced to second gold medal game in four years and the female "Dream Team" moved easily into the Olympic quarterfinals. Wilkinson, 22, was an unlikely candidate to duplicate the 1964 success of a longshot New Jersey teen named Lesley Bush. She was in place early on, while the Chinese teen tandem of Sang Xue and Liu were one-two.

But on her third dive in the final Wilkinson grabbed the lead and never surrendered it. Making her victory even more unlikely, she wore a kayaking shoe to protect a foot blister in March, removing it only to scale the 33-foot tower. Wilkinson postponed her surgery until after the Olympics—a decision that is hard to dispute now. "I've gotten so used to it after the last six months that it's not that bad," Wilkinson said after ending China's string of victories at four straight Olympics.

The medal count after nine days of competition: The United States leads with 52 (21 gold, 12 silver, 19 bronze) followed by China and Australia. • SOCCER: The biggest American star scored the biggest goal in the tournament's biggest game thus far in Sydney. Michael Bradley, knocked around by defenders throughout the game, knocked Brazil out of the Olympic soccer final with the goal in the 60th minute.

The score, Hamm's 127th in international games, stood up as the defending gold medalists notched a 1-0 semifinal victory. Goalie Steve Mullinix made sure that goal would be enough with a super save 10 minutes later on a shot by Brazil's Rose. The Americans take on Norway which defeated Germany 2-1 in the final Thursday (Wednesday night ET). The United States already beat Norway 2-0 in an opening round game.

• WOMEN'S BASKETBALL: The U.S. women blew out Poland 78-57, for their fifth straight win and first place in their preliminary group. Sheryl Swoopes and Yolanda Griffith scored 16 points each to lead the Americans into the quarterfinals while Lisa Leslie added 14. • TRACK: Michael Johnson, defending gold medalist in the 400 meters, survived a wet track to qualify for the finals on Monday. Team mate Alvin Harrison, who finished just ahead of Johnson in their heat, will join him.

Australia's Cathy Freeman, running nine days after she lit the torch at the Olympic Stadium, won her heat in the women's 400 meters. In one of the Olympics' older comeback tales, Cuba's Javier Sotomayor won a silver medal in the high jump during a driving rainstorm. The 1992 Olympic gold medalist and world record-holder was suspended for two years after a positive test for cocaine in 1999.

His ban was later cut in half, allowing him to compete in the Sydney Games. The gold medal went to Sergei Klugin of Russia, the only competitor to clear 7 feet, 8 1/2 inches. • BASEBALL: Next stop, the medal round. The U.S. baseball team pounded Australia 12-1 in seven innings, a game stopped by the Olympic "mercy rule." The Americans (6-0) dominated in a game marred by a cold, driving rain, led by winning pitcher Kurt Ainsworth and four RBIs by Brent Abernathy. The Australians (2-4) finished out of medal contention.
