Carwash slayings trial starts

DALLAS (AP)—Greed and greed drove Robert Wayne Harris to kill five former co-workers and injure a sixth at a suburban Dallas car wash, a prosecutor said during opening statements of capital murder trial Monday. "The evidence will show that good innocent people were gunned down at the Mi-T-Fine Car Wash Assistant District Attorney Greg Davis said of the shootings in a courtroom packed with spectators. Harris, 28, has been charged with the five deaths and the slaying of an Irving woman. However, prosecutors are trying Harris only in the slayings of cashier Barbara Wheeler, 45, and assistant manager Augustin Villaseñor, 36. Killing more than one person in the same crime allows capital murder charges, and prosecutors say they will seek the death penalty. Harris pleaded innocent in his defense attorneys declined giving opening statement. The trial is expected to last weeks. After shooting the employee Harris went to his car, retrieved a knife, and slit Lee's throat, Davis said.

Furuta said his grant will be used to create digital libraries for studying early editions of Don Quixote to determine what Miguel de Cervantes intended to publish in his original edition. "Our particular collection is working with is with the author of Don Quixote, Cervantes," he said. "We essentially trying to make available a first editions of Don Quixote in a variety of ways. We will try to allow scholars to create what are called 'critical editions', which basically is taking important editions that were published during the lifetime of Cervantes and to figure out exactly what it is that intended to be published, sort of a perfect form of publication." Zhao said his grant will be used toward his research on a virtual laboratory for network engineering educational programs.

News in Brief

Red tide kills Gulf Coast fish (AP) — A toxic algae bloom is spreading along the Texas Gulf coast, killing millions of fish and fouling beaches with their remains. State environmental regulators call the red tide concentrations the largest since 1986 when a strain passed through the region, killing more than 22 million fish in a four-month period. The latest growth over the weekend has resulted in enough concentrations to be seen by the naked eye and cause respiratory irritation in humans. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologists observed red tide on Sunday in the Corpus Christi Bay near downtown. Red tide was also spotted in the Oso Bay and near the Port Aransas jetties.

Priest robbed in church rectory MILTON, Fla. (AP) — A priest was robbed at gunpoint in the church rectory by a man who rang the doorbell and asked for help. "At first, I thought it was a joke because he was so calm about it," said the Rev. Thom Crandall of St. Rose of Lima Roman Catholic Church. Crandall, 45, said the robber appeared after Saturday night's service and took the evening's collection, some personal cash and antique coins and bills. Then the gunman took Crandall's shoelaces and tied the priest's hands.
