Wiatt said female students should use the Corps of Cadets escort service, which can be reached at 845-6789, or call UPD at 845-2345 for a security escort.

The phone numbers are on the back of student identification cards. "If you have to go by yourself, call the Corps guard room," he said. "Preferably, get somebody else and go together." Approximately 50 emergency call boxes on campus provide one-touch access to emergency services.

SENATE

request is submitted no more than two years after the faculty member dies. Another proposal made to the Faculty Senate was reinstating the Faculty Senate Aggie Spirit Award.

According to the resolution presented to the Senate, the monetary award will be given to "students who attend Texas A&M University ... in spite of significant physical or other handicaps." Dr. Richard Carlson, deputy speaker and geology professor, suggested the re-establishment of the award based on a past student's effort in his course. "Last spring, I had a young woman with a mild case of MS (multiple sclerosis) in my class. She never complained," Carlson said. "It occurred to me that there are a lot of students here who have to deal with additional difficulties every day." The Faculty Senate unanimously approved the proposal, creating a committee to handle the details of the award. The next meeting of the Faculty Senate will be Feb. 12 at 3:15 p.m. in room 601 Rudder.
