Palestinian activist killed

Witness say leader of militant Hamas shot by Israel

BALATA REFUGEE CAMP, West Bank (AP) — A leader of the militant Palestinian Hamas was shot and killed from long range Monday in another apparent targeted killing by Israeli forces.

Witnesses said Mahmoud Madani was walking from a mosque in the Balata refugee camp when he was gunned down. His brother Noor, 21, said Madani cried out, "I've been hit" and tried to crawl away. Doctors said Madani was shot four times in the upper body. He died several hours later in a Nablus hospital.

Witnesses said the gunfire came from Israeli positions 150 yards away. Palestinians and Israeli media assumed this was an Israeli killing of a Palestinian uprising activist, though the Israeli military refused to comment.

Israel has targeted and killed at least a dozen Palestinian activists in recent months, according to Palestinians. Usually the Israelis refuse to comment, but officials say often that Israel will hit those who attack Israelis.

In a newspaper interview, the deputy Israeli military chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Moshe Yaalon, said a decision has been made "to deal with, including harm, those who activate gangs against us." Yaalon told the Maariv daily that Israel prefers to capture militants instead of killing them.

Palestinians said Madani, 25, was a senior local activist in Hamas, an Islamic group that rejects peace with Israel and has taken responsibility for bomb attacks inside Israel.

Israel television said Madani was suspected of involvement in two bombing attacks. On Monday, two Israelis were killed and more than 60 wounded in a bus bombing in Hadera, and, in the Israeli city of Netanya, a suicide bomber injured dozens of Israelis.

The targeted killings have angered the Palestinians and drew criticism from human rights groups in the U.S. government.

In other violence Monday, Palestinian gunmen in the village of Jalla opened fire on Israeli soldiers near the Jewish neighborhood of Gilo in disputed east Jerusalem. Israeli forces fired back.

Two foreign technicians at an amusement park in the West Bank town of Tulkarem were wounded when Israel fired at the area, officials said.

Helicopter crashes in Myanmar

killing one, 14 remain missing

YANGON, Myanmar (AP) — One of the most powerful generals in Myanmar's military junta was killed Monday in a helicopter crash that left 14 others missing, the government said. A Cabinet minister and seven junta officials appeared to be among the missing.

The military helicopter carrying 22 officials and seven crew members crashed into the Salween River in southeastern Myanmar. Lt. Gen. Tin Oo, 67, and the rest of his party were going to Pa-an, about 100 miles southeast of the capital of Yangon, to inspect a bridge.

Myanmar Television, quoting a government statement, said the Russian-made MI-17 helicopter went down after going through "a sudden patch of bad weather." It also said that 14 people were missing — nine government officials and five crew members. None were identified.

The broadcast statement said that, in addition to Tin Oo, an unidentified military officer was also killed, and that 13 others survived. It gave no other details.

Government officials told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity that among those missing and presumed dead were Brig. Gen. Lun Maung, a minister in the premier's office, and Maj. Gen. Sit Maung, the commander of the southeastern forces.

Tin Oo, who had the title of Secretary 2, was the most powerful man in the ruling State Peace and Development Council, a 21-member group of army officers who took power in a bloodless coup in September.

A veteran of campaigns against ethnic and communist insurgents, Tin Oo had often threatened in public to "annihilate" opponents of the regime. But he rarely spoke publicly of politics and was a popular commander of the troops.

Tin Oo's death is not likely to affect the junta's relations with the opposition, led by Nobel peace laureate Aung San Suu Kyi, who has been campaigning for democracy in this Southeast Asian nation since 1988. Despite his high rank, Tin Oo was not intimately involved in policy making, which is largely controlled by junta leader Than Shwe.

In Yangon, mourners thronged the home of Tin Oo to comfort his wife and their four grown children.

Tin Oo had survived at least one assassination attempt in April 1997 when a parcel bomb airmailed from an exploded in his house, killing his third daughter, a year-old university lecturer. Tin Oo was in the house and escaped unhurt.
