Bobbing for basketballs

Conrad Parks, a City of College Station parks and recreation worker, tests his skill at operating a backhoe by trying to scoop balls into a basket at the City of College Station Parks and Recreation 30th Anniversary Celebration at Wolf Creek on Saturday. The backhoe obstacle course was one of a variety of games featured at the event.

also fun while we're here," McNeal said.
"We need to just go out and do the best we can and we'll come out on top. That's what I feel like we're capable of doing."
Friday's success advanced Lufkin into the winner's bracket tournament on Saturday morning. Unfortunately for McNeal and his teammates, their tournament came to a premature end without a berth into the championship game at Kyle Field.

After a 26-25 victory over Arp in Saturday's first round, Lufkin lost to Plano in the second round 21-14.
McNeal said it was great to see the excitement his commitment had created and that he was anxious to finish his senior season and begin his A&M football career.
McNeal's first performance in College Station may not have ended quite the way he hoped, but he plans on having plenty of opportunities to show case his skills for Aggie fans in the future.

"I just liked the vibe," McNeal said of his reason for boldly committing to A&M several months before the signing deadline.
"It has good coaches, it's a good school, it's just a good place for me to be in and it's not even far from home."

out there," Woods said after a 71.
He was not alone.
Darren Clarke of Northern Ireland was at 8-under par and rolling — until his tee shot rolled into a pot bunker on No. 17 and he took a double bogey.

Miguel Angel Jimenez of Spain also got under until he fell back with back-to-back bogeys. The only other American to make a move was Billy Mayfair, who finished with eight straight pars and wound up in large group at
