

Preparing for the Future... Exploring Your Options

Wednesday, Oct. 24 Career Safari: Finding the Right Major
7 p.m. 103 Henderson
Sponsored by Student Counseling Services

Tuesday, Oct. 30 Been There, Done That: A Student Panel
Internships, Study Abroad, Graduate School
7-8:30 p.m. 102 Blocker
Sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts

For All Liberal Arts Majors

Door Prizes and Refreshments each night!

Come join the fun and find out about career options at the same time!

INTERN ABROAD SUMMER 2002

*LONDON, ENGLAND *DOMINICAN REPUBLIC *SINGAPORE

INFORMATIONALS

Oct 17 7-8:15 pm MSC 228
Oct 18 7-8:15 pm MSC 228
Oct 23 8:30-10 pm Rudder 404
Oct 24 7:15-8:15 pm Wehner 135

L. T. Jordan Institute for International Awareness
<http://ltjordan.tamu.edu>

To inform us of your special needs, call
845-8770 or stop by MSC 223-1.

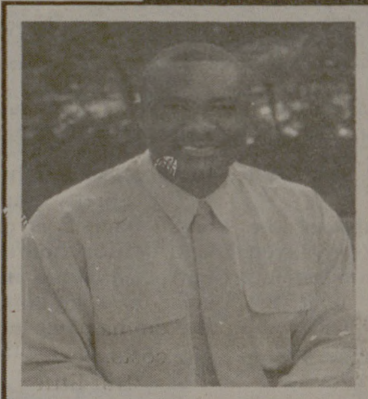

Introducing Dr. Okey Okoli. A continental approach to women's health care.

Brazos Medical Associates proudly announces the addition of Dr. Okey Okoli to our growing staff of associates. Dr. Okoli brings his special brand of treatment gained through training on three continents. He practiced in Nigeria for three years as a general practitioner and was board certified in Obstetrics & Gynecology in England. He practiced in England for six years before completing his residency at Bronx Lebanon Hospital in New York. Dr. Okoli is a member of the Royal College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists of the United Kingdom.

We are very excited by his presence in the Brazos Valley. Find out about the continental approach to women's health care. Call us at 764-4043 for your appointment today. Early morning and evening appointments are available! Most insurance plans accepted.

1602 Rock Prairie, Suite 360
College Station, TX 77845
979-764-4043

BRAZOS
MEDICAL ASSOCIATES

Noreen Z. Johnson, MD
F.A.C.O.G.
Gynecology

Haywood Robinson, MD
D.A.B.F.P.
Family Practice

Okey Okoli, MD
M.R.C.O.G.
Obstetrics & Gynecology

Sports

Page 8

THE BATTALION

Wednesday, October 24, 2001

No. 14 Aggies travel to CU

By DOUG FUENTES
THE BATTALION

The No. 14 Texas A&M volleyball team begins the second half of its Big 12 season Wednesday when it travels to Boulder, Colo., to take on the No. 24 Colorado Buffaloes.

The Aggies (15-3, 8-2 Big 12) begin the second half in sole possession of second place in the Big 12. Colorado (11-6, 6-3 Big 12) is amid a two-game losing streak and is in third place in the Big 12, behind the Aggies.

The first half of Big 12 play has been good to the Aggies as they posted an 8-2 record. However, when they face the Buffaloes, they will be looking to avenge one of those losses.

The Buffaloes defeated A&M in five games earlier this season at the G. Rollie White Coliseum. The Aggies took the first two games of the match, 30-23, 30-24, and seemed well on their way to a victory.

Colorado bounced back to win the last three games, 30-28, 30-24, 15-10, to pick up the win, which was its first in five visits to G. Rollie.

The Buffaloes also won their last game against the Aggies last season, to have two straight victories against A&M.

"I think it's a great battle between the two teams," said A&M volleyball coach Laurie Corbelli. "They've been off since last Wednesday, and I think that's going to be good for us because we will hopefully still be in our game mode ready to go. They're a feisty group. We always have very close games, so we're anticipating more of the same."

The Aggies are coming off a 30-28, 23-30, 34-32, 30-25 victory over Kansas State on Monday at G. Rollie. The Aggies were led on the attack by senior outside hitter Brandi Mount. Mount paced the Aggies with 22 kills and hit a team record of .354 for the match.

The Buffaloes have tied their season-long losing streak at two matches after losing to No. 8 Colorado State and being upset by Missouri last week.

Colorado was without outside hitter Sonja Russell for both games due to a sprained ankle. Russel, who leads the team with 3.30 digs per game, and is second with 3.31 kills per game, is listed as probable to play against the Aggies.

The Aggies are off this weekend and return to action at home against Oklahoma at G. Rollie on Oct. 31 at 7 p.m.

INJURIES

Continued from Page 8

depth chart has been hit. Wide receiver Brandon Johnson, who was the Aggies' leading receiver coming into the season, injured his spleen against Wyoming. The senior had surgery to remove his spleen weeks later, but is expected to apply for a medical redshirt at the end of the season that will salvage his last year of eligibility.

Junior wide receiver Gentry was having a successful season until he broke his bones in his foot prior to the Baylor game. Porter is expected to miss four to six weeks. Senior Wes Bautovich said the action he could have against the Wildcats, which started at free safety after senior Jay Brooks and backup Dan Gentry both had injuries. Bautovich led the team in tackles against Kansas State with 12.

Offensive lineman Andrew Brooks and linebacker Zach Hunnicutt both have knee problems and are doubtful for the Iowa State game on Saturday. Offensive tackle Michael Mahan and defensive lineman Linnis Smith also missed practice before the Kansas State game due to injuries. Smith is questionable for the Iowa State game, while Mahan is doubtful to play against the Cyclones.

"There are no guys we've moved. We already moved the guy we thought had a chance," Slocum said. "We are just going to take what we have and make the best of it."

Jones unveils stadium plans

Cowboys' owner meets with DFW mayors for new stadium design, and financing would have to be made within the next year or so.

DALLAS (AP) — The mayors of Arlington, Irving, and Dallas met separately Monday with Dallas Cowboys owner Jerry Jones who briefed leaders of potential host cities for the first time on his proposed new stadium and entertainment complex that could cost $1 billion or more.

But the project to replace Irving's Texas Stadium, the Cowboys' home since 1971, is now likely delayed both by the terrorist attacks and weakening economy.

"Our world is different today than it was two months ago, and we understand that," said Jones. "This clearly is not a time to talk in more specifics or in great detail."

Irving Mayor Joe Putnam left his meeting with the Cowboys owner under the impression that the stadium development plans have been pushed back.

"What I have been advised by their representatives is because of the events of 9/11 and economic uncertainty in the country, no stadium proposals or discussions will be forthcoming for several months," said Putnam, who has let City Council members lead Irving's charge for a new stadium.

A 100,000-seat stadium for the Cowboys — surrounded by a year-round destination that includes football-themed dining, lodging and other attractions — would open in 2006 at the earliest. For that to occur, decisions on location, design, and financing would have to be made within the next year or so.

"Our exchange of ideas will hopefully give us a better sense of where we and the various communities are, and where we might be going as we look to the future as it pertains to football," Jones said in a prepared statement. "This clearly is not a time to talk in more specifics or in great detail. The time for decision-making is down the road."

Dallas Mayor Ron Kirk said preliminary sketches were impressive, including a theme park, other sports-related venues, offices and retail space. The entire complex could cover 250 to 300 acres, he said.

"What excites Jerry Jones is using the stadium for a much larger sports theme park," Kirk said. "He's smart. On the business side of football, he's spent a lot of time looking at how you can generate revenue."

The project's cost was not mentioned in the meetings. But Jones said earlier this year that a stadium's price tag could be $1 billion or more.

"It sounds as if he is on the same page as we are," said Arlington Mayor Elzie Odom. "He is not selecting, nor lobbying, cities at this point. He is trying to get the concept totally focused and decide exactly what he wants to get in there."

The subject of the terrorist attacks did come up

"The time for decision-making is down the road."

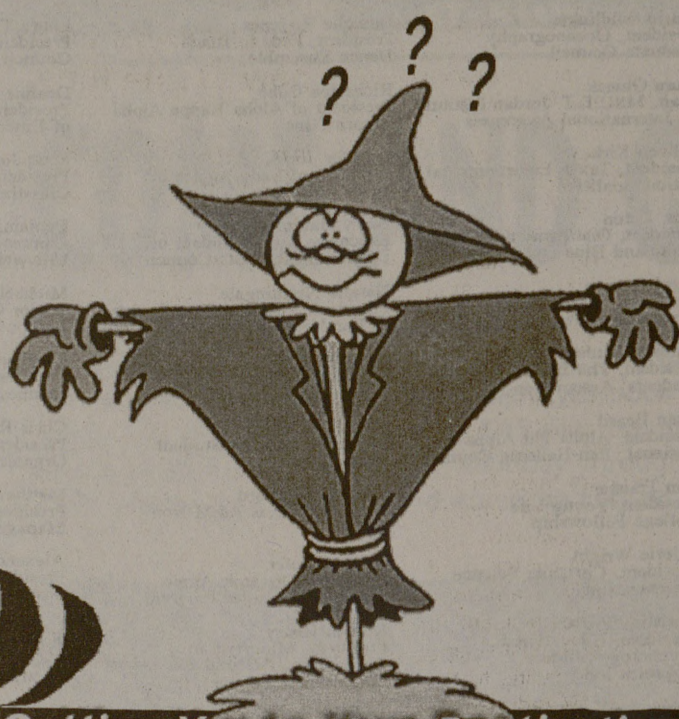

JONES

www.ptts.tamu.edu

If I Only Remembered Where I Parked!

If you parked in an AREA designated for the 12th Man, please remember to move your vehicle by 6:30 p.m. on FRI., Oct. 26, for the IOWA St. game on SAT.

Getting You to Your Destination

Class of 2002

Get your FREE Senior Portrait made for the 2002 Aggeland yearbook. Go by AR Photography at 1410 Texas Ave. S. (next to Copy Corner in the Redmond Terrace Shopping Center) or call 693-8183. M-F 9-11:30 A.M. and 1:30-4 P.M.

AGGELAND
Texas A&M University Yearbook • 100 Years of Excellence
845-2682 aggiland.tamu.edu