Crafty Huskers edge OU

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The last time Nebraska started a season 9-0, the Cornhuskers needed a miracle catch to get there. No miracle necessary this time. Just a little trickery. "I think you've got to be willing to run them," said coach Frank Solich of his decision to call "Black 41 Flash Reverse." The play was a reverse/pitch pass that Eric Crouch took for a touchdown late in the Cornhuskers' 20-10 win over Oklahoma on Saturday. "Sometimes they make you look pretty good; sometimes they make you look pretty bad," Solich said. It made Solich look better than pretty good Saturday. Nobody in Memorial Stadium, including the Sooners, expected to see any razzle-dazzle from the Huskers' conventional offense. The play started with a handoff to wingback Thunder Collins, then turned into a reverse to wideout Mike Stuntz and ended as a short pass Crouch took for a 63-yard touchdown. "We figured it was a good time to all the play. I snuck behind the defense and Mike delivered a great pass," Crouch said.

upright and bounced back onto the field. On the last play of the half, Yelk took the field once again looking to connect on a 47-yard field goal. Redshirt freshman Marcus Jasmin blocked the kick cleanly, and preserved the 7-7 tie with no time left in the half. The block was Jasmin's second of the season. The Aggie special teams unit has blocked three field goal attempts and two punts this season. Yelk's day would not improve, as he missed a 43-yard attempt wide right in the third quarter. "Obviously, we are real disappointed," Yelk said. "I thought the snaps and holds were good. It is over now and it is a tough lesson to learn."
