NY mourns 1st anthrax fatality

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 300 people turned out Monday to mourn the city's first anthrax fatality at a funeral arranged by friends and neighbors who remembered her as a quiet, hard-working woman.

Kathy Nguyen, 61, a stock-room worker at the Manhattan Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital, died Wednesday of inhalation anthrax. Officials have not determined how she contracted the disease.

"She was just a well-loved individual," the Rev. Carlos Rodriguez said during the service in the South Bronx neighborhood where she lived for two decades. "We couldn't find any family members to claim her, but this is her family."

Nguyen was eulogized Monday in English, Spanish, Chinese and Vietnamese. A choir sang hymns in Vietnamese and the casket was wrapped in the old red-and-yellow flag of South Vietnam, the nation Nguyen left in 1975 before it collapsed under a Communist onslaught.

"Everyone that she touched loved her," said friend Gina Ramjassingh. "She was an aunt to my children and she was the best friend I ever had."

Co-workers, fellow union members, hospital executives and the governor's wife attended the service at St. John Chrysostom Roman Catholic Church.

Nguyen apparently had no close relatives in the United States. Neighbors and friends arranged the funeral; Nguyen's union, 1199 Service Employees International Union, funded it.

Officials have not determined the source of the anthrax that killed Nguyen. Seven cases of the easily curable cutaneous, or skin, form of anthrax have been confirmed by the city health commissioner; all of those cases are linked to news outlets.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, which uses a stricter standard, has confirmed only four of the city's skin anthrax cases in addition to Nguyen's inhalation anthrax.

Also Monday, the federal government argued in court papers that there are no legal or public health grounds to close the Morgan mail distribution center in Manhattan, where traces of anthrax were discovered. Filed in response to a lawsuit from a postal union, the papers said that health officials have declared the Morgan facility safe.

Bus rolls over after struggle

CASA GRANDE (AP) — A Greyhound passenger apparently tried to wrest control of the steering wheel away from the driver, sending the careening out of control. The bus rolled over a freeway, injuring 33 people critically.

It was the third month that a passenger commandeered one of the bus company's buses.

Charles George, Phoenix, who was not treated for facial injuries, said his office has an investigation pending disciplinary actions, but declined to comment on the decision. The process has been

But Richard Platt, criminal deputy for the County Attorney's Office, he has authorized 10 assault charges against George, and said other charges could be added in the future.

"We believe there were some mental instabilities were dealing with," Platt said. "He didn't make overt statements about hijacking the bus or anything in the name of religion. It appears he was acting independently."

Former Air Force sergeant pleads innocent to attempted espionage

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — A retired Air Force sergeant accused of attempted espionage pleaded innocent Monday in federal court.

Brian P. Regan, of Bowie, Md., could receive life in prison if convicted of the attempted spying. U.S. District Judge Gerald Bruce Lee set a trial date for March.

The indictment against Regan alleges that he improperly used a classified government computer network called Intelink to obtain secret images of missile facilities in two unidentified countries.

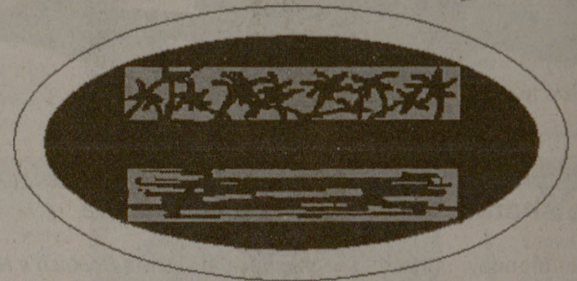

The indictment does not specify the countries for which Regan allegedly attempted to spy. Intelligence sources had previously accused Regan of spying on Libya as the potential beneficiary of Regan's alleged activities.

But when he was arrested in August at Dulles International Airport as he attempted to board a flight for Germany he carried in his wallet the addresses of the Chinese and Japanese embassies in Switzerland and Austria. He also had the addresses hidden under the sole of his shoe, according to the indictment.

Regan worked at the National Reconnaissance Office in Chantilly, Va., a military intelligence agency that designs, builds and operates the network of spy satellites. He worked at NRO from 1995 until his arrest.
