SECURITY

"They have three roles, which we refer to as the three As — be aware, acknowledge, and act," Decker said. They must be responsible and do what they have to do and being observant is the first level of sophistication, he said. Before the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks, the main concern of passengers was the numerous amount of delays and the fact that planes never arrived on time. "There is not one particular reason to describe the events of September 11th. There are certain aspects, but the Muslims have an extreme view and are not necessarily against us," Decker said. Decker said that what is included in homeland security is hard to determine when overseas embassies and military bases are targets. "It definitely is not well-defined," Decker said. Overall, intelligence is the key element in being prepared, he said. "We as a nation have to be prepared when a crisis happens. We must respond with a consequence, and it is not complicated. We do it every-day," Decker said.

by them," Kramer said. His parents were immigrants from Hungary, and they spoke Hungarian, German, and sometimes French. Kramer said he has learned and speaks a little bit of many languages. He said he was very influenced by his parents because they spoke of Europe and history and exposed him to different languages. Kramer has an immense list of publications and awards. He is an expert in Nazi Germany history and wrote the only book on Nazi prisoners of war in America. He recently helped filmmaker Woolfe Schoen make a documentary about the Nazi prisoners of war in America. He has received the Texas A&M Associate of Former Students Distinguished Achievement Award in Teaching in 1983 and in 2000. He was also a Fish Camp name sake. Kramer said most of the things he has accomplished are things he does not know of, like helping students in small ways. "Sometimes students will contact me years later because I made a small difference in someone's life," Kramer said. Kramer says he plans on teaching at A&M for many more years. His youngest son, Doug Kramer, is now a freshman at A&M studying German. "The people I teach with and the students I teach are wonderful. It has been a blessing," Kramer said.

they are wonderful and confidential." AIDS Services of Brazos Valley will have a food drive in recognition of AIDS Day on Saturday in the parking lot of the Kroger in College Station and the Hastings in Bryan between 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. "The food drive is to help support our HIV clients during the holiday season," Escamilla said. "We will wear our red ribbons in support of the cause of curing AIDS and continuing research."

NEWS IN BRIEF

Sailor from Texas reportedly missing in Indian Ocean

AMARILLO (AP) — A 44-year-old sailor from Amarillo has been reported missing from a vessel in the Indian Ocean, Navy said. Randy Whitaker, petty officer second class aboard the guided missile destroyer USS Russell, was reported missing about 6 a.m. Tuesday. Cmdr. Jane Campbell, Naval Public Affairs at Pearl Harbor told the Amarillo Globe News on Wednesday. Whitaker, who was an information specialist technician on the ship, was last seen at 3 a.m. Tuesday, Campbell said. Members of the crew of the ship, which was about 70 nautical miles southwest of India when Whitaker was seen, Campbell said. Campbell said the ship's patrol aircraft then began searching for him in the area. "As time expands, so does the search area," Campbell said. "They would expand the search area as part of the search. Every hour that you expand it."
