

FBI enters Enron offices

HOUSTON (AP) — Enron Corp. invited the FBI to its headquarters after a former executive said she saw employees shredding documents as recently as last week. Meanwhile, shareholders suing the once-mighty energy company sought access to its former auditor's records.

FBI agents arrived at Enron's headquarters Tuesday to investigate the shredding allegations and company guards blocked employee access to accounting and finance offices on the 19th and 20th floors of the 50-story building.

for a certain amount of time. Andersen is currently under a Texas court order prohibiting shredding.

In Washington on Tuesday, the White House disclosed that President Bush's mother-in-law, Jenna Welch, had invested in Enron and lost $8,100.

Bush, a friend of Enron chairman Kenneth Lay, reiterated that he had no intention of releasing details of Enron contacts with White House aides who developed his energy plan, saying if "somebody has an accusation of wrongdoing, let me know." Congressional investigators also said they would subpoena senior officials at Andersen, including the chief executive, to testify Thursday.

Enron slid into the biggest bankruptcy in U.S. history last month after investigators began examining several complex partnerships used to keep half a billion dollars in debt off company books. Enron shares crashed, and thousands of employees lost their jobs and their stock-loaded retirement savings.
