Luxury train jumps tracks, at least 80 left

RAFIGANJ, India (AP) — Rescuers recovered 67 bodies Tuesday and 13 of the injured died after a luxury train jumped the tracks while crossing a bridge in the remote countryside in eastern India. One car plunged 300 feet into a river and two others hung perilously from the colonial-era structure.

The Rajdhani Express, a luxury air conditioned train, became a pile of twisted metal minutes after it derailed on the bridge in Bihar state Monday night. Besides the at least 80 confirmed deaths, authorities said more than 170 passengers were injured.

Some distance a dreds of suitcases arranged at track rows. People sat by their relatives, wait bodies lay unatt authorities awaited to identify corpses.

As rescuers cut an unchecked car, other the darkened windows rods, calling out for Army doctors and injured. Cranes and ing machinery work the track.

K.K. Saxena, a top railway official in the region, told reporters one of the train cars remained to be searched and workers were using cutting torches to open it.

"My foot is trapped. I can't move it. Please take me out or I will die," a trapped passenger could be heard to plead as rescuers worked to open the car.

The train was carrying 535 passengers and 70 railway staff when it jumped the tracks shortly before midnight Monday. It was traveling about 80 mph at the time of the accident 420 miles southeast of New Delhi, the capital.

India has more than 120,000 steel railway bridges and nearly half were built a century ago. After a 1998 train collision that killed 210 people, an investigative panel sought the urgent replacement of 526 extremely weak bridges, identified as "distressed." The bridge over the Dhawe River, location of the derailment Monday, was not among them.

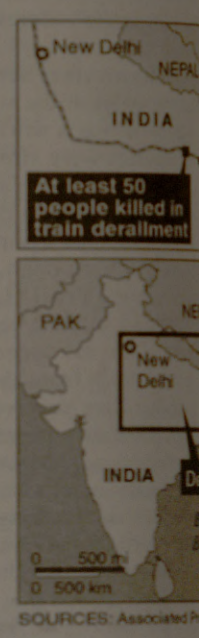

The aging bridges were "ticking time bombs," retired railway safety official K.J. Diwakar told Press Trust of India.

India's state railway system runs 7,000 passenger trains a day on 66,875 miles of track — the longest network outside China. It reports about 300 accidents a year, two-thirds of them blamed on worker negligence.
