AGGIELIFE: No money, more problems • Page 3A

OPINION: Four wheeled terrors • Page 5B

dume 109 • Issue 9 • 18 pages

www.thebatt.com

THE BATTALION

Thursday, September 12, 2002

A calling out to value out to attacks a year later Ceremonies held at Academic Plaza and George Bush Presidential Library to honor the victims

By Jessi Watkins THE BATTALION

INTERNA

t 80 left

s rescuers cut

necked car, oth darkened win s of suitcases and

ged at track

People sat by relatives, wai

lay una

INDIA

east 50 ple killed i n derailmer rack.

THE BAT

5:30 p.m. on Sept. 11, as orities awaited Ibritton Tower played patriotic usic, students gathered in the cademic Plaza for a special flag remony by the Corps of Cadets. The ceremony began with a NEPA erformance of the national nthem from the Singing adets

Student Body President Zac

Bush mourns

ear of sorrow,

ows victory

NEW YORK (AP) - With

ords of comfort and resolve,

Vednesday in remembering "a ar of sorrow, of empty places" illed thousands and drew merica into war. He vowed ictory over "history's latest ang of fanatics.'

e the terrorist attacks that a nationally televised dress, Bush said, "We will not elent until justice is done and our nation is secured. What our nemies have begun, we will

The Statue of Liberty and a

Coventry spoke about the events of last year and how the campus pulled together for Red, White and Blue Out.

"I have every confidence that we shall continue to stand together as Aggies, as Americans and as human beings," Coventry said. MSC President, Barry with the 1999 Aggie Bonfire Collapse surfaced again on Sept. 11. "At a significant time in history like this I am so proud to attend Texas A&M, because we exemplify everything that has allowed us to survive this last year," Hammond said.

Molina Warty, president of the International Student Association, reminded listeners mony, speakers and students

Coventry called Wednesday "a Hammond, said Wednesday that that the tragedy of Sept. 11 was day to remember the lives lost the sense of family he witnessed not only felt by U.S citizens marched from the Academic Plaza down West Main around "As a world we are interconnected, hence what you feel I feel, and so does the rest of the world," Warty said.

Warty said it was touching that A&M came together to share the grief of the nation and protect the international students from unnecessary obscenities.

After the Corps performed a traditional flag-lowering cere-

Albritton Tower and onto Simpson Field. Students chatted as they marched and the atmosphere was neither solemn nor heavy. Instead, students seemed to enjoy one another's company on a day when they were reminded that life is uncertain. Ashley Marshall, a freshman business major, attended the flag ceremony and the Unity March on Wednesday evening.

"As a freshman, just being here, it makes me realize how much we are a family and just feeling that bond," Marshall said. Marshall said she was not worried about another terrorist attack on the anniversary of last year's attacks.

"Some people were, but I wasn't. I felt that our country was safe for now," Marshall said.

See Aggies on page 2

Aggies design monument for Sept. 11, WWII

By Sarah Walch THE BATTALION

A monument designed by Texas A&M students and dedicated to the memory of the Sept. 11 attacks on America and the World War II bombings of a small town in Italy stands in Castiglion Fiorentino, a rural town in the Italian countryside.

An exhibit showcasing a smaller model of the 12-foot monument "Memory" will be on display in the Langford Architecture Center atrium today. "Memory" was designed by senior environmental design majors Whitney Skinner, Lisa Andel and Virginia Sternat during their semester in Italy during this spring.

The statue was dedicated June 2 in Castiglion Fiorentino, the site of the College of Architecture's study abroad program at the Santa Chiara Study Center.

The mayor of Castiglion Fiorentino, Paolo Brandi, approached Paolo Barucchieri, visiting professor of architecture and director of the Santa Chiara Study Center, with the idea for the project in February.

Initially, the students worked on the abstract aspect of the project individually, then divided into three different groups and submitted the designs for a competition in mid-April, Skinner said. After winning the competition, Skinner, Andel and Sternat stayed in Italy until the statue's dedication in June, two weeks after the semester concluded.

ery captive land," Bush said. We have no intention of ignorg or appeasing history's latest g of fanatics trying to murtheir way to power. They are scovering, as others before em, the resolve of a great nocracy."

The emotional return to New York was his final stop in a dayong tour of the three sites carred by terrorism — a rebuilt ly satiorever-altered skyline were at is back as the president spoke rom Ellis Island, the first stop or millions of immigrants and a symbol of American tolerance and independence. "Now and in he future, Americans will live is free people, not in fear, and never at the mercy of any forgn plot or power," Bush said. This nation has defeated yrants, liberated death camps nd raised this lamp of liberty to and s and nk!!!

inis

d now unblemished Pentagon. field of golden grass in ennsylvania and the dusty, even-story-deep hole where the rade center towers once soared.

"In the ruins of two towers, inder a flag unfurled at the Pentagon, at the funerals of the ost, we have made a sacred promise, to ourselves and to

IP BEATO III • THE BATTALION

Bryan Fire Department paramedic Cory Matthewes observes a moment of silence Wednesday morning in front of the George Bush Presidential Library where a ceremony was held to honor Sept. 11 (top). Retired veteran Bill Farnsworth from College Station holds an American flag before the start of the September See Bush on page 9A 11 Honor America Memorial Ride at the Russ Welch Harley RANDAL FORD . THE BATTALION Davidson store in College Station (above left). Sophomore entomology major Stephen Bahr and freshman architecture major Marcus Gibbons draw stars and write messages on a car that belongs to the Texas A&M Sports Car Club. Students paid a dollar to write on the car and all proceeds raised will go to the September 11 fund (above right).

The three were on hand for a reception at the exhibit on Wednesday afternoon.

"Castiglion Fiorentino was

See Monument on page 2A

Northside volleyball Search for A&M provost, VP begins Transportation Institute and professor of By Lauren Smith the Board of Regents and the Legislature, court to be replaced Bazer said. engineering. THE BATTALION The provost deals with more than the role

By Lauren Bauml THE BATTALION

Growing student worries of lost unity among Northside resilents may be eased by the replacement of a Keathley Beach volleyball court later this fall.

Construction of a yellow lot located at the corner of Old Main Dr. and Wellborn Rd. has left many Northside residents frustrated at both the loss of a common area and the destruction of a sand voleyball court. Residence Life officials, however, said the volleyball court would be replaced once the lot is finished.

"It's all about unity, and as the administration takes away our volleyball courts and grass to play on, we lose the chance to hold ents together as a dorm," said Ram Lopez, a junior rangeland ology major.

The lot, still under construction, is scheduled to be complete by end of September.

"Adding an additional yellow lot to Northside leaves us students ith no benefits, and then to top it off, they take our volleyball ourts," said Jedd Raney, a sophomore biochemical engineering and netics major. "We need additional student parking, not additional faculty lots.'

The construction of the yellow lot serves as a precursor to a new combination residence hall and Residence Life and Student Services Building soon to be located on Northside.confusing Once new dorm is constructed, the lot will be turned into a red lot for student access.

A 16-member committee of deans, faculty, administrators and students will have its first meeting today to discuss a plan of action for the nationwide search for the University's next provost and executive vice president.

The committee is headed by Herbert Richardson, director of the Texas

The committee is looking for someone who possesses strong leadership skills and understands on an academic level how a large university like Texas A&M operates," said Dr. Fuller Bazer, executive dean of agriculture and life sciences and member of the provost search committee.

The next executive vice president and provost should have good interpersonal skills and the ability to interact with both of chief academic officer of the University.

"The provost and executive vice president must be a very gifted person who will be able to reflect upon and lead all aspects of the University's activities, not just academic affairs. It will take a very talented person to do this successfully," said Dr. John P. Fackler Jr.,

See Search on page 9A

Hubbard speaks about humanity

By Jeremy Osborne THE BATTALION

Sept. 11 is one of the defining moments of humanity, along with dropping of the atomic bomb and landing on the moon, said Dr. Barbara Marx Hubbard Wednesday night in a speech on the future of human development.

Sept. 11 demonstrated the vulnerability of ourselves from each other," Hubbard said. "No matter how much force we use, we can't protect ourselves.

She said humanity is at an evolutionary crossroads because society has enough power to destroy the future of the human See Court on page 9A | species, but at the same time has developed an unprecedented power to create and transform.

Her speech, "A New Education for the Future of Humanity: 9/11, a Wake-up Call for the Next Step in Human Development" detailed her plan to further conscious evolution. Hubbard is president of the Foundation for Conscious Evolution in Santa Barbara, Calif.

"Dr. Hubbard is probably the first woman in the country to establish her expertise in futurist creative thinking," said Mary Broussard, chair of the Future of Higher Education Committee. "We wanted to bring someone to campus to look at all of JOHN LIVAS • THE BATTALION Barbara Marx Hubbard spoke Wednesday night regarding the events of See Hubbard on page 2A Sept. 11 and the future of humanity.