to minimize the number of students living together in a residence and cut down on parking complaints, said the ordinance will allow for the development of more subdivisions in Bryan.

College Station has the same roommate limits as for several years. Julie code enforcement officer of City of College Station, College Station Enforcement has given over the years, but no citations are begun if a neighbor police officer issues a complaint to code enforcement, Caler said. If the investigation shows that more than four related persons are living in the same residence, a warning is issued to give the violator a chance to comply with the ordinance.

"We haven't given citations because we have not seen complete compliance after the warnings," said Caler.

Caler said she has issued warnings this year.

Similar to Bryan, citations are begun if a neighbor police officer issues a complaint to code enforcement, Caler said. If the investigation shows that more than four related persons are living in the same residence, a warning is issued to give the violator a chance to comply with the ordinance.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Greenspan says economy holds

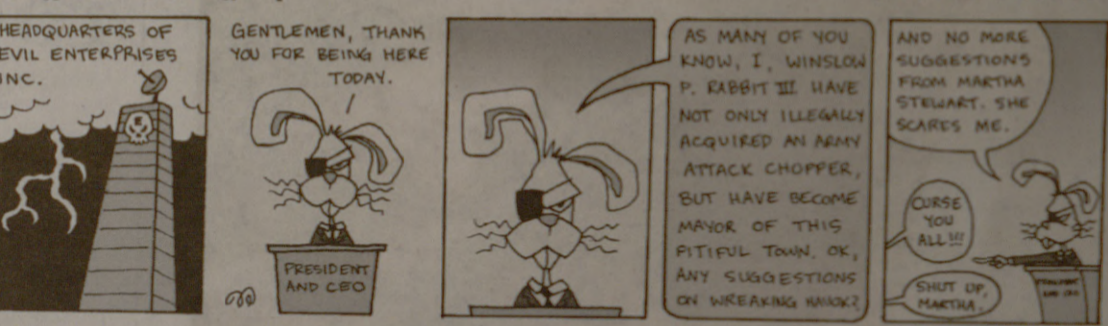

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reserve Chairman Greenspan told Congress Thursday that "depressing effects" on the American economy still linger from the attacks and the stock market steep plunge.

But Greenspan said Democrats' suggestions for President Bush's future return to federal deficits.

Israel sends tanks into West Bank

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli tanks surrounded the Gaza town of Rafah on the Egyptian border early Friday, residents said, hours after tanks entered the West Bank town of Tulkarem.

Residents said about 60 Israeli tanks were involved in the Rafah operation. Witnesses said the Israelis dug trenches in the main road, cutting off the town. There were exchanges of gunfire, but no casualties were reported.

In Tulkarem, residents said about 10 tanks entered the town, on the line between the West Bank and Israeli. The Israeli military said only that some forces has been sent into Tulkarem and the curfew there reimposed.

The military movement, which has become routine in recent months, came as Palestinians and Israelis assessed the meaning of the resignation of Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat's Cabinet a day earlier, just before the parliament was set to tender a vote of no-confidence.

Tulkarem is one of six West Bank Palestinian cities and towns that have been under Israeli military control since mid-June, when Israel sent its army into the population centers following back-to-back suicide bombing attacks in Jerusalem.

Since then, the Israeli military has imposed curfews in the towns, confining hundreds of thousands of Palestinians to their homes. The restrictions are usually lifted during the day in most places, except Nabulus, which Israel considers a center of terrorist activity.

Also Thursday, Palestinians in Gaza fired a Qassam rocket at an Israeli village, hitting a house, the military said. The rocket crashed into the kitchen of the house in Saad, about two miles from the Gaza border fence. No one was home at the time and there were no injuries.

Palestinians insist that Israel withdraw its troops from their cities and towns, charging that Israel is stalling implementation of an agreement that was to start the process of an Israeli pullout.

The agreement, announced Aug. 18 by Israeli Defense Minister Binyamin Ben-Eliezer and his Palestinian counterpart, Interior Minister Abdel Razak Yehiyeh, designated the West Bank town of Bethlehem and the Gaza Strip as test cases.
