Kuwaiti ministry decries attack terrorists responsible are dead

KUWAIT (AP) — A U.S. Marine who survived what Kuwait called a "terrorist act" was recovering Tuesday as investigators tried to determine how two attackers infiltrated military exercises off the emirate's coast.

Another unidentified Marine and the two assailants were killed in the gunfight that erupted Tuesday during urban assault training for U.S. Marines on Failaka, about 10 miles east of Kuwait City in the Gulf.

The injured Marine "was recovering from non-life threatening injuries," Lt. Garrett Kasper, spokesman for the U.S. Navy Fifth Fleet based in Bahrain, said Wednesday.

Kasper would not provide the Marine's name or details about his wounds. Earlier, the Fifth Fleet had said the Marine was hit in the arm.

The Pentagon said Tuesday that the two assailants pulled up in a pickup truck to a group of Marines and opened fire with small arms. They then drove to another site and attacked again before being killed by Marines, the Pentagon said.

Marines later found three AK-47s and ammunition inside the truck, according to a statement released in Washington by the Fifth Fleet.

In a brief statement, the Kuwaiti Interior Ministry condemned the attack and identified the assailants as Anas al-Kandari, born in 1981, and Jassem al-Hajiri, born in 1976. It said both were Kuwaiti civilians.

U.S. intelligence has not determined if the attackers had any terrorist links, said an intelligence official, speaking on the condition of anonymity.

A Kuwaiti Interior Ministry official, speaking on condition of anonymity, described the two assailants as fundamentalist Muslims. More than 30 of his friends and relatives were detained for questioning, he said.

"The ministry announces that this is a terrorist act," the Kuwaiti Interior Ministry said in a statement. "It will not allow anyone to undermine the country's security."

The U.S. Embassy issued a statement on Tuesday reminding Americans in Kuwait to remain vigilant.

Pentagon spokesman Lt. Daniel Hetlage said Marines returned to their ships shortly after the attack, but later would resume exercises on the island.

Failaka Island was abandoned by its inhabitants when Iraq invaded Kuwait in 1990, and Iraq heavily mined it during their occupation.

After a U.S.-led coalition liberated Kuwait in 1991 Gulf War, Kuwait compensated islanders their property and resettled them on the mainland. The island has since been cleared of mines, and many Kuwaitis fish there on weekends. Some former residents visit occasionally.

Kuwait has been a Washington ally since the Gulf War. More than a decade later, most Kuwaitis remain supportive of the close relationship.

Marines were participating in a military exercise dubbed Eager Mace 2002, that involves Kuwaiti troops at some stages. However, the Pentagon said Tuesday the attack happened during an exercise for U.S. troops alone.
