Economy rebounds in summer, worries remain over future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy, powered by strong auto sales, rebounded to a 3.1 percent annual growth rate in the summer as business investment, which had been the major no-show in the current recovery, turned up for the first time in two years.

The third quarter increase in the gross domestic product, the broadest measure of economic activity, was hailed by a campaigning President Bush as a sign of better days ahead for an economy that has been battered by a recession, terrorist attacks, corporate accounting scandals and a plunging stock market.

"We're kind of moving our way toward a time when people can find work, but there's more to do," Bush told a campaign audience in South Dakota. But Democrats, who have sought to make the weak economy an issue in the battle over control of Congress, said that the summer strength had already faded and warned that the economy is once again flirting with a possible recession.

"Substantial job losses continue and the economy is sluggish at best," said South Carolina Rep. John Spratt, the top Democrat on the House Budget Committee. "The economy is currently weak and vulnerable to a renewed downturn."

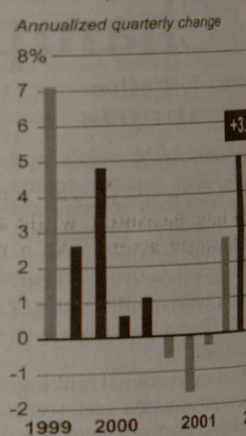

Most private economists believe the country will avoid a "double dip" recession, but they are forecasting much slower growth for this October-December quarter and the first three months of next year as consumer demand wanes under the impact of rising joblessness, the ailing stock market and worries about a possible war with Iraq.

"Once recent financial-market shocks begin to fade and the conflict with Iraq is past, we expect growth to ramp up again in the spring," said Bruce Steinberg, chief economist at Merrill Lynch.

The government will release its report on unemployment for October on Friday. Many analysts believe the jobless rate will climb from 5.6 percent to 5.8 percent, reflecting a wave of new layoff notices from companies still struggling with weak profits. A separate report Thursday showed that the number of newly laid-off workers filing for unemployment benefits totaled 410,000 last week, an increase of 16,000.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ballistic tests link sniper rifle to shooting in Alabama in Sept.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — New forensic and ballistics evidence indicates the rifle used in the Washington-area sniper shootings may also have been the weapon in a September slaying in Alabama, police said Thursday.

In a brief statement, the Montgomery Police Department said it was told late Wednesday by federal firearms officials that "based on new evidence there are reasons to believe" the same rifle was used in the sniper shootings and the Montgomery case.

Montgomery Mayor Bobby Bright and Police Chief John Wilson scheduled a news conference for Friday to discuss the case.

The statement came after The Washington Post reported that new testing had linked the car with the gun used in the Sept. 21 shooting outside a Montgomery liquor store.

Muhammad, 41, and John Lee Malvo, 17, have been charged with capital murder and attempted murder in the shooting, which killed a store employee and wounded a co-worker. Muhammad and Malvo are also charged in the shooting spree that killed 10 people.
