Coaches

Franchione at TCU in 2000.

Koenning, 43, graduated from the University of Texas (UT) in 1981 and played as wide-receiver for the Longhorns from 1977-80. He was a team captain his senior year at UT.

The other seven assistant coaches were named earlier this week, but their exact positions have not been released. The other coaches making the move to A&M include Stan Eggen, Lee Fobbs, Jim Bob Helduser, Kenith Pop, Melvin Smith, Chris Thurmond and Mark Tommerdahl.

"I'm glad to have these outstanding coaches join us here at Texas A&M," Franchione said.

Franchione also named Charley North as the new director of football operations.

Former director of football operations, Tim Canale, will take over a new position in the athletic department.

Franchione said he has named his assistant coaches for Alabama will help the transition at A&M.

"I've worked with these coaches and we're a team," Franchione said. "Being involved with our system will help this process forward and the players will see that their coaches are on the same page."
